Provision shall be made for classifying schools "and for the enforcement process for non-standard school systems and schools," to include "periods of consultation and probation prior to termination of state-contributed . . . funds."

Non-standard schools shall develop plans for compliance with standards. A Standards Council shall be appointed from the State Department of Education.

2. Other Qualification Standards

STATUTES

§32-645a

"Effort is to be made to utilize currently available educational facilities and equipment on a year-round basis . . . ."

"The State Board of Education shall have the authority to prescribe minimum requirements and standards for the distribution, use and expenditure of funds allotted under this section . . . ."

§32-658a

The school year shall consist of 180 days, scheduled by the State Board of Education, which shall also determine the length of school days.

§32-661a

Local units of administration must comply with "school laws" to be eligible to receive state funds.

REGULATIONS

30-716

Local school systems may "require additional units for graduation . . .; offer credit for subjects in lieu of enrollment . . .[and] for planned off-campus experience " modify the length and number of class periods and the way the school year is divided; and "adopt policies to waive attendance requirements" based on the students' age, access "to alternative learning experience, performance levels," parents' wishes and State Board guidelines.

Local systems shall establish:

"1. performance objectives based on mearningful community input,

2. performance indicators to determine if performance objectives have been met,

3. planned course descriptions for all courses offered,

4. appropriate performance objectives . . . for students . . . having handicaps which prevent them from meeting . . . contemporary life role performance objectives,

5. . . . recordkeeping and reporting . . . on . . . performance objectives; these should be tested . . . no later than ninth grade."

"All recording and recordkeeping shall become a part of a student's permanent record, and a cumulative report shall be available for student and parental review at all times.

"Local systems must offer 38 courses . . . in . . . communication skills, math, laboratory science, social science, comprehensive health and safety, music, arts, foreign language, home economics, vocational education and physical education." Subjects shall be taught at least once every two years and every year in high school of 400 or more students.

All ninth grade students should be provided with a guidance session on the relation of career objectives to school course work. "Annually thereafter, an advisor shall counsel each student on alternative means he or she might use to satisfy unmet performance objectives."

40-2611 -- 2613; 2620

The State Board "believes that each individual school should be sufficiently large to have an adequate staff to provide comprehensive programs and services to meet the various needs of children and youth. The State Board encourages . . . the consolidation of elementary schools to achieve minimum enrollments of 500 children in grades K-7 and of 1,000 students in grades 8-12." Combined high school enrollment should be between 900 and 1800 students.

40-2810; 2820

The State Board has discretionary power to "make adjustments in teacher allotments to isolated schools so as to provide a program of education that meets the criteria established for standard schools," if such school or school system meets any one of three alternative sets of criteria to be classified as isolated.

The Office of School Administrative Services is responsible for developing procedures for, and reviewing, applications for consideration as an isolated school.

40-3011; 3013; 3014

The State Board shall insure that the public schools operate long enough each year to comply with state law "and to permit students . . . ample opportunity for learning those subjects and skills offered at their respective grade levels." A "scholastic month" is 20 school days and a school year for pupils is at least 180 full days. Teachers work 190 days (180 regular school days plus five preschool and five post-school planning days).

The State Superintendent may "allow local boards of education to depart from a strict interpretation of the definitions of school year . . . month or . . . day under certain emergency conditions.

Local boards of education may decide to operate schools for more than 180 days. "Personnel employed to work under extended school year terms shall not be paid less than the minimum salary prescribed by state law."

The State Superintendent shall review the rules and regulations of local systems.

50-710

The State Board " shall allot instructional units to local school systems in such a manner as to provide an adequate educational opportunity for all public school students in Georgia." The State Superintendent shall "develop procedures for allotting instructional units to local school systems" for State Board approval.

A "paraprofessional" performs some of the duties of the professional and has some limited "decision-making authority." An "aide" does not make decisions or take any independent action.

The educator believes in the worth and dignity of man . . . the pursuit of truth, the devotion to excellence and the nature of democratic citizenship . . . the protection of the freedom to learn and to teach and the guarantee of equal educational opportunity for all . . .

The educator . . . engages himself[herself] individually and collectively with other educators, to judge his[her] colleagues, and to be judged by them . .

2. shall not deliberately suppress or distort subject matter;"

3. shall attempt "to protect the student from conditions harmful to learning or to health and safety;"

4. shall avoid causing a student "unnecessary embarrassment or disparagement;"

5. shall not discriminate against any student;

6. "shall not use professional relationships with students for private advantage;

7. shall keep in confidence information that has been obtained in the course of professional service, unless disclosure serves professional purposes or is required by law;"

These standards apply to classroom teachers and to "those who supervise and provide administrative services to" classroom teachers. "Professsional reviewers appointed by the [Professional Practices] Commission shall review professional performance . . . .No finding of professional incompetency shall be made except where a preponderance of evidence exists."

In order to carry out administrative and supervisory requirements, "each educator . . . shall keep records . . . 4. shall develop and maintain standards of conduct".

An educator should be knowledgeable and be aware of current developments in his or her field of specialization. As part of the responsibility "to evaluate learning and goal achievement, . . . the competent educator

1. shall utilize several types of evaluative techniques;

2. shall provide . . . feedback concerning the success of learning and goal achievement efforts;"

3. shall appropriately control his/her emotions;

4. shall possess . . . sufficient intellectual ability to perform" duties and assignments.

APPEAL

"Appeals and requests related to grievances, complaints, conditions and situations may be considered by the [Professional Practices] Commission upon appeal from the local level or upon request from the State Board of Education," which supervises the Commission in the exercise of its jurisdiction. The three classes of complaints the Commission may consider are "alleged violation of law, for which the penalty is revocation or suspension of certificate; . . . alleged violation of the Commission's code of ethics; alleged professional incompetency."

COMPLAINT

Any interested person may file a complaint with the Commission. If a complaint involves professional incompetency or violation of the code of ethics it must be delivered by mail to the Commission director, who authorizes an investigation. A complaint should be filed as soon as possible after an "alleged violation . . . a complaint . . . may be amended or withdrawn by the complainant at any time prior to the issuance of the notice of the hearing or dismissal" and after that at the Commission's or hearing committee's discretion. After a complaint is received, the Commission gives the respondent (person complainted against) a copy and may "assign a staff member to conduct a field investigation."

NOTICE

After conducting the investigation the staff member reports on "the precise nature of the complaint . . . [and] factual information supporting the complaint ," and recommends whether there should be a hearing. After the respondent is notified of the complaint, he or she has 10 days to file an answer. "The Commission executive committee shall consider the complaint, any answer and all . . . reports from the staff before determining if an apparent violation of . . . codes and standards . . . has occurred. If the executive committee rules that an apparent violation has occurred," a public hearing is ordered, to be held in the county in which the respondent resides. "The absence of either party after due notice shall not prohibit the hearing from proceeding."

HEARING

An educator's rights and duties "under duly adopted ethical or professional standards of professional practice may, upon appeal, be determined upon public hearing by the Commission . . .; the Commission may . . . make such recommendations to the State Board of Education or to a school board as are . . . consistent with "its findings. The Commission shall hold hearings for "providing due process for members of the teaching profession; . . . [and] making findings of fact and recommendations concerning duties, professional and ethical performance" or the factors affecting these. Parties involved in a hearing shall be notified at least 15 days before the proceeding begins. "The chairman of the Commission shall appoint three Commission members to hearing committee," one of whom serves as chairman. The hearing examiner, who is an attorney and "competent by reason of training or experience," is appointed by the Commission to counsel the hearing committee. All proceedings and recommendations shall be recorded by the Commission and these "shall constitute the exclusive record for the Commission recommendations and final order, if any, by the State Board of Education."

The hearing committee or hearing examiner is authorized to issue subpoenas; take depositions; "regulate the course of the hearing; . . . hold conferences for the settlement or simplification of the issues by consent of . . . [the] principals; . . . enter into the record any recommendations for an order to the State Board . . . or the Commission . . .

Hearings to consider complaints of unethical, unprofessional and incompetent practice shall be adversary in nature," with opportunity afforded each party to make opening and closing statements.

If the executive committee is in any case not certain that "information submitted . . . is sufficiently persuasive to support a finding of probable cause," it may order an investigative hearing. The hearing shall be informal and the Commission attorney shall replace the hearing examiner. "The accused person may attend such hearing and may be accompanied by counsel." The executive committee will consider the hearing transcript and the hearing committee's findings, and then "dismiss the matter, order an adversary hearing or recommend probable cause to the State Board." All parties participating in a Commission proceeding shall have "the right to . . . present his[her] case of defense by oral and documentary evidence; . . . submit rebuttal evidence and conduct . . . cross-examination; . . . make offers of settlement on proposals of adjustment; . . . be represented by counsel or . . . represent himself[herself]."

RIGHT TO COUNSEL

Because of the subject matter involved in such proceedings, "the exclusionary rules of evidence shall not be used to prevent the receipt of evidence having substantial probative effect. Otherwise, effect shall be given to the rules of evidence recognized by law in this state."

A hearing examiner shall not "advise the committee or Commission in . . . its final recommendation except through his[her] recommended order." If a Commission member participated or "was an informed party to" a preliminary investigation, he or she shall not be a member of the hearing committee.

STANDARDS FOR PUBLIC SCHOOL OF GEORGIA

State Board of Education 1976

The purpose of Standards is to ensure the most efficient and effective system of education to all school age children in Georgia. The standards instrument contains criteria, based upon state law and state board policy, ranging from services for exceptional children to interscholastic activities. Criteria are designated as required, essential and desirable. In order to be classified as standard, a school must respond affirmatively to all required and essential criteria and to as many desirable items as possible.

Standards are revised each year and applied to every school and school system in the state. This helps to determine needed improvements in programs, personnel and facilities.

III. Quality of the Educational Process

A. Qualification Standards for Schools and School Districts

1. Accreditation

Regulations

The Illinois Program for Evaluation, Supervision, and Recognition of Schools

Ch. 1-1

Each school will be periodically visited for the purpose of recognition. Each evaluation will be led by a representative from the Public School Approval Section of the Illinois Office of Education and will include the respective Regional Superintendent or designee.

SCHOOL VISITS

Ch.1-2

The Public School Approval Section and the Regional Superintendent will determine the extent to which the educational program is meeting the specified requirements of the state.

Ch.1-3

As part or the recognition standards, a school district shall file a written program plan with the Illinois Office of Education. The Program Plan Information shall be annually revised, updated and submitted to the Illinois Office of Education, Public School Approval Section. In the development and revision of its Program Plan, the board of education shall reflect community involvement.

Ch.1-4

"Pending Further Audit" may be assigned to a district just visited because of limited violations which could be corrected within the current school year. This is a temporary condition and not an official recognition status.

Ch.1-5

There are three types of recognition status: Full Recognition, Probationary Recognition, and Nonrecognition.

Full Recognition is granted to a school district or attendance center which has undergone an on-site evaluation by representatives of the State Board of Education, Illinois Office of Education, Public School Approval Section and the respective Regional Superintendent, and meets the minimal standards required of all elementary and secondary schools and has submitted an Annual Application for Recognition.

Probationary Recognition is given to a school district or attendance center which has not met the minimal standards. Probationary Recognition is a warning that the school shall make certain improvements.

Nonrecognition is given to a school district or attendance center which fails to submit an Annual Application for Recognition, fails to meet legal requirements, or fails to give evidence of meeting minimal standards.

Ch.1-6

School districts assigned Probationary Recognition or Nonrecognition may request reevaluation by the Illinois Office of Education to substantiate corrections of the areas of noncompliance previously cited.

Ch.1-8

The following procedure shall be used for all appeals concerning recognition except those which are related to desegregation.

LEVEL I

At the conclusion of each evaluation visit to a local school district, the educational specialist (team leader) in charge of the visit conducts a summary conference. At this point, each item that was determined to be below minimal standards, or is an area of concern, is discussed. This summary conference represents the first level of the appeal process.

LEVEL II

The educational specialist who conducts the visit writes a formal report indicating the areas of noncompliance and any time limitations for making corrections. The superintendent of the school district has forty-five(45) days after receiving the written report to submit a formal written reaction to listed areas of noncompliance. The local board of education or superintendent may appeal a recommendation based on documented evidence presented by the district through the Regional Superintendent.

LEVEL III

The Public School Approval Recognition Committee, consisting of the Public School Approval staff, meets four times during the school year. This committee discusses and considers recommendations for recognition status of districts that have been visited.

LEVEL IV

At the final meeting of the Public School Approval Recognition Committee, all schools that were previously recommended for less than Full Recognition and those visited in the last quarter are discussed. Again, Regional Superintendents are invited to attend the meeting, along with a representative of the school district.

LEVEL V

APPEAL

Local boards of education that wish to appeal the recommendations of the Public School Approval Recognition Committee may do so by filing a formal statement of appeal within fourteen(14) days of receipt of the letter of notification following the last quarterly meeting. The appeal notice shall be submitted to the Regional Superintendent and the Assistant Superintendent, Department of Recognition and Supervision, Illinois Office of Education. Within seven(7) days of receipt of the appeal notice, the Assistant Superintendent, Department of Recognition and Supervision, will convene an Appeals Committee which will conduct a hearing and will review all the pertinent information, including the procedures which led to the recommended recognition status. Local districts shall have the opportunity to present evidence that the program or service in question meets the purpose behind a given resolution. The Committee's findings shall be forwarded to the State Superintendent of Education with a specific recommendation. The decision of the State Superintendent of Education, who may accept or reject the committee's recommendation, shall be a final administrative decision. The district shall be notified of the decision within fifteen(15) days of the conclusion of the hearing.

2. Other Qualification Standards

Statutes

§10-19 - 10-19.1

Each school board shall prepare a school calendar for each school year, providing a minimum term of 185 days. A school board may establish experimental programs at the high school level, including programs for "self-directed learning" or learning outside the classroom. These programs will be considered to comply with school calendar requirements.

A school district may, if its board approves, operate one or more schools in the district on a full year school plan.

Regulations

Ch.4-2

Class schedules shall be maintained in the administrative office in each attendance center of a school district. Every school district shall have an organized plan for recording pupil progress and/or awarding credit; a plan which can be disseminated to other schools within the state. [It] shall make provisions for students of different talents, intellectual capacities, and interests.

INSERVICE TRAINING

Every school district shall:

Provide curricula and staff inservice training to help eliminate unconstitutional and unlawful discrimination in our schools and society. School districts shall utilize the resources of the community in achieving the stated objective of elimination of discrimination and to enrich the instructional program.

DISCRIMINATION

"Competence is assumed. It rests with the complainant to furnish evidence of alleged incompetence. Because there is a great divergence among groups of people as to what constitutes competence in education, the following guidelines are suggested.

"a. The guiding of educational activities must be recognized as basic. Therefore, these activities require a degree of competence in developing, evaluating and applying educational activities in the variety of situations confronting the educator.

"b. In order to help the pupil become as effective an individual as possible the educator must have the competency to deal effectively with individuals and groups.

"c. Within any local system competence involves program building directed toward three important educational functions: (1) to provide an articulated series of educational experiences leading to desired objectives, (2) to provide an effective environment for developing the skills and attitudes needed for effective citizenship and for meeting developmental needs, and (3) to provide for liaison with the public on purposes and programs in education.

"d. The individual's effectiveness as a member of the profession calls for competence in three general areas of professional behavior: (1) personal relationships; (2) professional growth; and (3) effectiveness in dealing with problems of the profession."

"The educator measures his [her] success by the progress of each student toward realization of his potential as a worthy and effective citizen. The educator therefore works to stimulate the spirit of inquiry, the acquisition of knowledge and understanding, and the thoughtful formulation of worthy goals. "a. Shall not without just cause restrin the student from independent action in his [her] pursuit of learning, and shall not without just cause deny the student access to varying points of view.

"b. Shall not deliberately suppress or distort subject matter for which he bears responsibility.

"c. Shall make reasonable effort to protect the student from conditions harmful to learning or to health and safety.

"d. Shall conduct professional business in such a way that he does not expose the student to unnecessary embarassment or disparagement.

"e. Shall not on the ground of race, color, creed, age, sex, physical or mental handicap, marital status, or national origin exclude any student from participation in or deny him benefits under any program, nor grant any discriminatory consideration or advantage.

"f. Shall not use professional relationships with students for private advantage.

"g. Shall keep in confidence information that has been obtained in the course of professional service, unless disclosure serves professional purposes or is required by law.

"h. Shall not tutor for renumeration students assigned to his classes, unless no other qualified teacher is reasonably available.

"The educator believes that patriotism in its highest form requires dedication to the principles of our democratic heritage. He/she shares with all other citizens the responsibility for the development of sound public policy and assumes full political and citizenship responsibilities. The educator bears particular responsibility for the development of policy relating to the extension of educational opportunities for all and for interpreting educational programs and policies to the public. In fulfilling his obligation to the public, the educator:

"a. Shall not misrepresent an institution or organization with which he is affiliated, and shall take adequate precautions to distinguish between his personal and institutional or organizational views.

"b. Shall not knowingly distort or misrepresent the facts concerning educational matters in direct and indirect public expressions.

"c. Shall not interfere with a colleague's exercise of political and citizenship rights and responsibilities.

"d. Shall not use institutional privileges for monetary private gain or to promote political candidates or partisan political activities.

"e. Shall accept no gratuities, gifts, or favors that might impair or appear to impair professional judgment, nor offer any favor, service, or thing of value to obtain special advantage.

"The educator believes that the quality of the services of the education professional directly influences the nation and its citizens. He/she therefore exerts every effort to raise professional standards, to improve his/her service, to promote a climate in which the exercise of professional judgment is encouraged, and to achieve conditions which attract persons worthy of the trust to careers in education. In fulfilling his/her obligation to the profession, the educator:

"a. Shall not discriminate on the ground of race, sex, age, physical handicap, marital status, color, creed or national origin for membership in the profession, nor interfere with the participation or nonparticipation of colleagues in the affairs of their professional association.

"b. Shall accord just and equitable treatment to all members of the profession in the exercise of their professional rights and responsibilities.

"c. Shall not use coercive means or promise special treatment in order to influence professional decisions of colleagues.

"d. Shall withhold and safeguard information acquired about colleagues in the course of employment, unless disclosure serves professional purposes.

"e. Shall not refuse to participate in a professional inquiry when requested by the commission.

"f. Shall provide upon the request of the aggrieved party a written statement of specific reason for recommendations that lead to the denial of increments, significant changes in employment, or termination of employment.

"g. Shall not misrepresent his [her] professional qualifications.

"h. Shall not knowingly distort evaluations of colleagues.

"The educator regards the employment agreement as a pledge to be executed both in spirit and in fact in a manner consistent with the highest ideals of professional service. He [she] believes that sound professional personnel relationships with governing boards are built upon personal integrity, dignity, and mutual respect. The administrator discourages the practice of the profession by unqualified persons. In fulfilling his [her] obligation to professional employment practices, the educator:

"a. Shall apply for, accept, offer, or assign a position or responsibility on the basis of professional preparation and legal qualifications.

"b. The educator should recognize salary schedules and the salary clause of individual teacher's contract as a binding document on both parties. The educator should not in any way violate the terms of the contract.

1. Accreditation

STATUTES

§72-114 -- 72-116

SELF-EVALUATION

The board of education of any school district may make a district-wide self-evaluation, which, if approved by the state boards, shall be effective for the state accreditation requirement of such school district for a period of five years. The state board of education shall adopt rules and regulations to provide for annual reports from accredited school districts and to provide for annual validation of their accreditation status.

Accreditation of a school district shall include accreditation of each school in the district.

§72-8212

Every unified district shall offer grades one through twelve, with kindergarten being optional, and shall offer at least 30 units of instruction in grades 9 - 12 in each high school operated by the board. Such units of instruction, to qualify for the purpose of this act, shall have the prior approval of the state board of education. The board shall make all necessary regulations for the government and conduct of such schools, consistent with state laws. The board may divide the district into subdistricts for purposes of attendance by pupils. The board shall have the title to and the care of all school property belonging to the district. The board may close an attendance facility if the school fails to receive accreditation by the state board.

The board of any city unified school district with a population of more than 20,000 may close an attendance facility to improve the school system.

The board may close an attendance facility if, by election, the board has been authorized to construct a new school building, and if the new school building would adequately serve the educational needs served by the attendance facility being closed.

The board may close any attendance facility if the state fire marshal has ordered or recommended that the building be closed. If the state fire marshall has recommended that the building be repaired to make it safe, the board may close the building if the board believes the cost of the repairs to be excessive. The board shall make public at a board meeting any such recommendation by the state fire marshal and take no action until the next regular meeting.

Any nine electors who reside in the area of the attendance facility may appeal the order of the state fire marshal to the state board. If the state board sustains the state fire marshal's order and if twenty-five electors of the school district petition the board to hold an election on the question of whether bonds shall be issued to make the necessary repairs, an election shall be held.

The board may close an attendance facility if the state board agrees with the board that the costs of operating the facility are excessive and that other attendance facilities can adequately serve the needs being served by the facility under consideration.

If the state board agrees that the facility should be closed, the board shall hold an election on the question of creating and special operating cost assessment district which shall include the area of the attendance facility to get funds to pay the excessive costs. If a majority of the voters agree to create a special district, the attendance facility shall not be closed. The question may be voted on every two years.

STATUTES

§72-1381; 72-1383; 72-1388

The state board may issue a special teaching certificate to qualified applicants, such certificate specifying on its face those subjects that the holder is authorized to teach.

CANCELLATION

Any teachers certificate may be cancelled on the grounds of immorality, gross neglect of duty, annulling of written contracts with boards of education without the consent of the board, or for any cause that would have justified the withholding thereof when the same was granted.

The state board of education is authorized to make rules and regulations governing the issuance, renewal, reinstatement and registration of certificates for teachers and other personnel in the state department of education.

TERMINATION NOTICE

Teacher employment contracts may be terminated by the local board upon written notice served upon the teacher "prior to the time the contract has been completed." Terms of the contract may be changed at any time by mutual consent.

HEARING

When a teacher has been given a termination or non-renewal notice, that teacher shall be informed of the reasons for the action and be given the opportunity of a hearing. The hearing committee shall consist of one member designated by the board, one member designated by the teacher and one member chosen by the first two. In the event that there is no agreement on the third committee person, that person shall be chosen by the district judge of the county.

§72-5439 --72-5443

DUE PROCESS

At the hearing, the teacher may be represented by counsel and afforded due process to include presentation, examination and cross-examination of witnesses, the right to testify on her/his own behalf and "the right . . .to a fair and impartial decision based on substantial evidence."

If either party requests it, a transcription shall be taken.

If either party wants to present testimony by affidavit or deposition, that party shall inform the hearing committee of the date the testimony is to be taken. No such testimony shall be presented at the hearing unless the opposing party has had ten days prior to the presentation to examine it.

Any authorized hearing committee member may administer oaths, issue subpoenas, authorize the taking of depositions, and regulate the course of the hearing. The burden of proof shall be on the board if the teacher alleges that the reason for the termination or non-renewal is that the teacher exercised a constitutional right. All relevant evidence shall be admitted unless its probative value is outweighed because its admission would necessitate undue consumption of time.

Unless otherwise agreed to by both parties, the hearing committee shall submit a written recommendation to the teacher and the board within thirty days of the hearing. The board shall make a final decision after considering the recommendation and after hearing oral argument or receiving briefs from the teacher and the board. §72-5445

Provided, however, that any board may waive such two year requirement for any teacher employed by it who, prior to such employment, were teachers who had completed not less than two consecutive years of employment in any school district . . . in this state.

§72-5446

Whenever a teacher alleges that his/her contract was not renewed because he/she exercised a constitutional right, the teacher shall specify to the hearing committee the nature of the activity protected, and the times, dates, and places of the activity. If the hearing committee determines that no substantial evidence supports the teacher's claim, the board's decision not to renew shall stand. If the hearing committee determines substantial evidence exists to support the teacher's claim, the board shall submit its reasons for nonrenewal. If the board's decision is supported by any substantial evidence its decision shall be upheld.

The provisions of this section shall be supplemental to sections §72-5436 to § 72-5445.

An Advanced Professional Certificate shall be issued in the vocational education areas to a teacher . . . not required to have a bachelor's degree for initial certification who" has taught for 3 years, holds or is qualified for the standard professional certificate, and "has completed a planned program of 34 semester hours, including both professional and content courses," of which six may be in-service credits.

"A Provisional Degree Certificate may be issued to a teacher who holds a bachelor's . . . or higher degree. . . but fails to meet the requirements for a standard professional certificate . . . . "Educational decisions made by professionals in the process of implementing school programs must be based on a broad spectrum of information and . . . opinions from others.

"General beliefs about the nature of education must be clearly stated and accepted before effective programs and standards can be developed . . . The effectiveness of programs . . . must be measured" against such beliefs.

a. "Beliefs about the Scope of Education. Learning. . . encompasses the total life experience of each individual . . . . In this ongoing process of learning, the secondary school should play a vital and relevant role . . . . The school should help the student to want to make the most of his or her potential, to develop a capacity to grow and learn continuously, to respect and understand others, and to accept full responsibility for the results of personal behavior.

"b. Beliefs about Students and How They Learn. Each student possesses unique but ever-changing capabilities, needs, and interests . . . .

"Positive reinforcement sustains the motivation necessary for learning." The school must provide the necessary "instructional resources . . . to assure that each student succeeds in learning.

"c. Beliefs About the Content of the Educational Program. Maryland is committed to providing a program of

Art. 77 §98D

The state board shall prescribe a minimum reading level for each grade two through twelve. If a student has not met the minimum level he shall be retained in the current grade or placed in a reading assistance program. The student may not, however, be retained in the same grade more than once.

REGULATIONS

13.03.01.02

"The following general state standards govern requirements for graduation from Maryland public schools. Credits for graduation are earned in grades 9 through 12." A student may take more or less than four years to complete these requirements.

"a. Enrollment Requirement. The student must satisfactorily complete four years of approved study beyond the eighth grade . . .

b. Credit Requirement. A student must earn a minimum of 120 credits beyond the eighth grade, "eleven of which must be in English language arts, social studies "one must be United States History and one must deal with contemporary issues, including local, state and national governments"), science, and mathematics; a "physical activity program" is required every year.

(1) "Basic proficiency levels in reading, writing skills, and practical mathematics, as established by . . . standard approved by Maryland State Board . . . will be expected of all students."

(2) The "physical activity program" is a yearly requirement for high school students which may be fulfilled by "physical education courses for elective credit and/or . . . non-credit programs developed . . . and evaluated in accordance with guidelines established by the local school system."

(3) A list of subject areas to serve as a "general guide for consideration in curriculum programs" is included; the major divisions are business education, English language arts, fine arts, foreign languages, health education, mathematics, physical education, practical arts, science, social studies, vocational-technical education.

(4) These are the minimum state requirements. "A local school system may specify up to two additional credits within the total of 20 credits required for graduation." The local board must approve any additional requirements.

(5) "Determination of a unit of credit is based on the satisfactory completion of course work and the number of hours of instruction scheduled by the school.

(6) . . . In addition to earning credits during the regular school day and year, credits may be earned through . . . other programs. These programs are:

(7) Summer School. Local school systems may provide summer school programs . . . for original or review credit. . . . Requirements for review credit shall be developed for individual students . . . after determining the student's proficiency in the subject.

Credit may be given for acceptable summer work offered by approved public and nonpublic institutions in or outside of Maryland, provided the principal of the student's own school authorized the work in advance.

(8) Evening School. Local school systems may provide evening school programs as an extension of the regular school day for original or review credit . . . .

(9) Correspondence Courses. With prior consent of the school principal, credit may be given for correspondence courses in subjects not available in the school system" if the correspondence school has been approved by the State Department of Education and it is in the student's best interest to take the course.

(10) Tutoring may be used but "only after all the resources of the school system have been utilized fully and. . . it is definitely" in the student's best interest.

(11) A maximum of 6 credits "toward graduation may be earned by . . . a satisfactory score on a subject-matter examination or an appropriate criteria assessment measure . . . approved for use throughout the local school system."

(12) A maximum of 9 credits toward graduation "may be granted to a student for work or experience outside the school approved and supervised by the local school system."

C. "Alternatives to four-year enrollment" are available. They are:

(1) "Accelerated twenty-credit program." If a student wishes to obtain the required minimum credits for graduation in less than four years, the student and parent must submit a written request to the local superintendent to waive the four-year requirement and state the reason.

(2) "A student may receive a Maryland high school diploma . . . in the early college admission program, provided that:

"(a) The student is accepted for early admission to an accredited college . . .

"(b) A written request by the student and his[her] parent (guardian) is made to and approved by the local superintendent of schools, asking the waiver of the four-year requirement and certifying the early admission acceptance."

(c) After the student successfully completes the year of study in college, the superintendent requests that the high school principal issue a diploma.

(3) "A student may receive a Maryland high school diploma through participation in an early admission program of an approved vocational, technical, or post-secondary school" following the same procedure as for the early college admission program.

(4) "A student may receive a Maryland high school diploma through participation in a job entry training program provided that:

"(a) The student has been accepted in a job entry program with the written approval of the local superintendent.

"(b) Both the student and his[her] parent (guardian) approve the cooperative agreement between the school and the employer . . .

'(c) The student fulfills . . . the minimum 11 general education credits.

"(d) The student earns an additional nine credits for satisfactory work on the job under the supervision of a school teacher-coordinator."

(5) "A student may receive a Maryland high school diploma for satisfactory performance on approved General Educational Development Tests."

(6) A student may be given credit for work completed at a previously attended accredited school. "Credits earned at a non-accredited high school may not be accepted. . . unless they have been validated by appropriate, standardized examinations given by the school to which the student transfers."

To make secondary education more relevant to student needs and stated goals and objectives, "new and different programs leading toward graduation need to be . . . made available to students. Local school systems are encouraged to explore . . . personalized programs as ways of fulfilling graduation requirements. Two recommended approaches for meeting graduation requirements are outlined below:"

a. "A curriculum design which develops dealing with broad human concerns . . . can be . . . developed around concepts that integrate knowledge from various disciplines and is flexible enough to deal with the needs, interests, and concerns of each student." The basic structure of the program is conceptual or typical, and the approach "necessitates a restructuring of elements, such as program offerings, time arrangement, assessment procedures and words of teaching and learning."

These would be basic "minimal requirements in reading, writing, and mathematics . . . minimal proficiencies would also be expected . . . in each concept area." Each student is responsible for planning his or her program.

b. "The provision of a personalized educational program for each student is an ultimate aim for secondary schools . . . . Both cognitive and affective learning would be emphasized . . . . General criteria for the development of a personalized program are as follows:

"(1) Planning and authorization of the program would take place in a conference involving the student, the parent (guardian), and appropriate school personnel . . . . The role of the school would be to provide an objective assessment of the student's strengths and weaknesses and to indicate various appropriate educational experiences available in and out of school . . . .

"(2) Mutually agreed upon performance criteria would be established for the student in each of the educational experiences selected . . . .

"(3) Each individual experience would be assessed upon the completion of the performance criteria established. . . .

'(4) The total staff would be involved in the guidance function of the school . . . .

"(5) Continuous efforts would be made to increase the number of in-school and out-of-school experiences available to the individual student . . . . The school would continuously assess its program and community resources."

(6) "Procedures for implementing new programs leading to high school diplomas . . . are as follows:

(a) development of a curriculum plan which includes program description, performance requirements, and evaluation procedures.

'(b) Presentation of this plan to the local superintendent of schools for approval.

(c) Submission of this plan to the State Superintendent of Schools for his[her] recommendation to the State Board of Education for final approval."

III. Quality of the Educational Process

A. Qualification Standards for Schools and School Districts

1. Accreditation

Regulations

Regs. of July 18, 1975

Equal Educational Opportunity

1.00 Purpose and Construction

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY

The purpose of these regulations is "to ensure the right of access to the public schools . . . and the equal enjoyment of the opportunities, advantages, privileges and courses of study at such schools without regard to race, color, sex, religion or national origin. These regulations shall be liberally construed for these purposes.

The obligation to comply with these Regulations is not obviated or alleviated by any local law or rule or regulation of any organization, club . . . league or association which would limit the eligibility or participation of any student on the basis of race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

2.00 School Admissions

All public schools . . . shall admit students without regard to race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

No school shall discourage in any express or implied manner, applicants for admission because of race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Any standards used as part of the admission process, including but not limited to testing, the use of recommendations and interviewing . . . shall not discriminate on the basis of race, color, sex, religion or national origin. Limited English-speaking ability shall not be used as a deterrant to a limitation on admission.

If admission to any school . . . is dependent upon the participation in a completion of courses or programs which were previously limited to students of one sex, or if close scrutiny reveals that access mechanisms or other administrative arrangements have limited the opportunities of any racial, ethnic or religious group . . . to participate in such program, then such criteria must be abolished."

The determination of what courses are to be required or the scheduling of students into courses "shall not be done on the basis of race, color, sex, national origin or religion."

Every student "shall have equal rights of access to courses of study and other opportunities available through the school system of the city or town in which he or she resides.

4.00 Guidance

Race, color, sex, national origin and religion shall not be considered as limiting functions in career determination" and shall not be presented as such by guidance counsellors and other personnel.

"Occupational information" programs "shall include representatives of both sexes and of minority group members in a broad variety of occupational roles." Any materials used in the presentation of such programs shall not contain a preference for a particular "race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

No materials or tests shall be employed for guidance purposes which discriminate and/or limit choices on the basis of race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

5.00 Curricula

The curricula of all public school systems shall present . . . the culture, history, activities and contributions of persons and groups of different races, nationalities, sexes and colors.

All school books, instructional and educational materials shall be reviewed for sex-role and minority group stereotyping.

Each school shall provide equal opportunity for physical education for all students. Goals, objectives and skill development standards, where used, shall neither be designated on the basis of sex, nor designed to have an adverse impact on members of either sex.

6.00 Extra-curricular Activities

No school shall sponsor or participate in the organization of outside extra-curricular activities conducted at such school which restrict student participation on the basis of race, color, sex, religious or national origin.

[N]o school shall take action which would tend to reduce the number of female participants in intramural and interscholastic athletic activities . . . until such time as an equalization of male and female participation has been achieved."

School systems "shall provide a fair distribution of athletic expenditures" and "each school . . . shall provide equal opportunity for male and female students to participate in intramural and interscholastic sports."

To insure "fair distribution of athletic expenditures . . . each school shall indicate in . . . [its]. . . budget . . . the anticipated expenditure for each interscholastic and intramural athletic activity and the anticipated student participation in that activity by number and sex.

A school may establish separate teams for males and females for interscholastic competition in a particular sport, provided that . . .[t]eams composed primarily or solely of persons of one sex shall be granted equal instruction, training, coaching, access to available facilities, equipment, and opportunities to practice and compete as teams engaged in a similar activity comprised primarily or solely of persons of the opposite sex.

Participation in extra-curricular activities shall be actively encouraged . . . for both boys and girls and for racial and ethnic minorities. When offering extra-curricular programs . . . the ethnic traditions of the student body "shall be considered.

7.00 Facilities

"Every new school . . . and every addition to[a modernization of] an existing school . . . shall be designed or planned so as to ensure that the educational opportunities [thereafter] to be affected . . . will be available equally to all students thereof without regard to . . . race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

The goal of each school shall be to provide equal . . . facilities and conveniences" to members of both sexes. This shall include, for example, showers, locker rooms, etc. Plans for new schools, or additions to old schools "shall include whatever provision is necessary to achieve compliance with this section."

8.00 Active Efforts

Local school committees "shall establish policies, promote regulations and procedures, and implement monitoring and evaluation practices that support and promote affirmative action and stimulate necessary changes to insure that all obstacles to equal access to school programs for all persons . . . no matter how subtle or unintended, are removed. Such policies shall include a requirement for an annual evaluation of all agents of the K-12 school program to ensure that all students . . . are given an opportunity to develop skills, competence, and experience, and to receive appropriate guidance so that they may be able to participate in all programs offered by the school . . . "

The school committee and Superintendent are jointly responsible for providing "necessary information on in-service training for all school personnel in order to:

-- advance means of achieving educational goals in a manner free from discrimination . . .

-- enhance consciousness of the kinds of discriminatory and prejudicial practices and behavior which may occur in the public schools.

The superintendent . . . shall promote and direct effective procedures for the full implementation of these regulations and shall make recommendations . . . for the necessary policies, program changes, and budget resource allocation needed to achieve adherence to these regulations."

At the beginning of the school year, local superintendents shall send out notices to the parents of all school-age children, informing them of the existence of Chapter 622 and of its implications. Such notice shall be in the primary language of the parent and shall state that all programs and services offered by the school "are available without regard to race, color, sex, religion or national origin." In addition, the superintendent shall publicize the law throughout the community in general.

The superintendent shall also be responsible for ensuring that the students themselves are aware of the existence of the law.

He/she "shall make certain that employers who recruit new employees in and through the schools . . . do not discriminate . . . in their hiring and recruitment practices within the schools." Before any such recruiting is undertaken, "the employer shall be required to sign a statement that he/she does not [so] discriminate.

Since adults serve as role models for students, school authorities shall utilize adults in a variety of jobs, and as members of policy making committees . . . without regard to race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Adults serving on athletic regulatory boards shall fairly represent the interests of both male and female students.

Because selective secondary schools have had atypical student bodies in the past, such . . . schools, including but not limited to selective academic high schools, regional vocational-technical schools and trade schools, shall admit qualified applicants of each sex and racial and ethnic groups in numbers proportionate to the existence of members of such class in the secondary school population of the geographic area served by that school."

Students whose primary language is not English shall be given the opportunity to receive guidance and counseling in his/her primary language.

9.00 Complaint Procedure

A parent, guardian or other person or group who believes that either the law or these regulations ha been or is being violated, "may request a written statement of the reasons therefor . . . and may submit a copy of such request to the Bureau of Equal Educational Opportunity . . . . If such request is made, a copy of such request shall be sent by the School Committee to the Bureau . . . ."

COMPLAINT

The School Committee must respond in writing to the complaining party within 30 days. A copy of such response shall also be sent to the Bureau.

"The Bureau . . . shall act as the representative of the Board of Education for the purpose of receiving complaints."

The Bureau upon receipt of such complaint, shall "conduct reviews" to insure compliance with the laws and with these Regulations. "The School Committee and the specific school[s] involved shall cooperate to the fullest extent with such review.

REVIEW

In the event of non-compliance . . . the Board . . . may take such action as it sees fit, including, but not limited to, withholding of funds or referral of the matter to the . . . Attorney General for appropriate legal action.

10.00 Private Right of Enforcement

Nothing in these regulations shall abridge or in any way limit the right of a parent, guardian, or person affected to seek enforcement of Chapter 622 . . . in any court or administrative agency of competent jurisdiction."

2. Other Qualification Standards

Statutes

15 §1I

The board of education shall provide assistance in the formulation of plans to reduce or eliminate racial imbalance.

If, after the board gives notification that racial imbalance exists, any school committee "does not show progress within a reasonable time in reducing or eliminating racial imbalance in its schools," the commissioner of education shall "not certify the amount of state aid for such city or town."

The commonwealth shall, subject to appropriation and upon the approval of the board, pay one hundred percent of the cost of transportation of pupils transferred from schools in which racial imbalance exists to schools in which racial isolation or racial balance exists.

Plans made by school committees to reduce or eliminate racial imbalance, which are rejected by the Board, may be subject to "judicial review."

One or more courses . . . at least four years in length, shall be maintained . . . for the benefit of all inhabitants . . . for at least the number of days required by said board, ... A school committee may determine that such school shall be conducted for less than the number of days required . . . because of epidemic, extraordinary weather conditions dangerous to the health or safety of pupils or other emergency, subject, however to the provisions of Section Four A . . . ."

71 §29

"In every public school having a membership of fifty pupils or more, one or more female assistants shall be employed unless the town votes otherwise."

REGULATIONS

REG. #15

Length of Day and Year

School Year

"1. All school systems should schedule not less than 185 days in the school year calendar.

2. The school year shall contain not less than 180 days . . . during which both pupils and teachers shall be present and engaged in regular teaching -- learning activities. SCHOOL TERM

3. Early dismissal may be authorized . . . on the Wednesday preceding Thanksgiving, on December 24 . . . and on the last day of the school year in June.

School Day

1. A school day to be counted must involve the physical presence of students for the required number of hours.

2. Elementary schools . . . shall operate not less than five hours daily, exclusive of lunch periods, but may include recess periods.

3. Sunday schools shall operate not less than 5 1/2 hours daily, exclusive of lunch or other recess.

4. School systems shall be allowed . . . days for faculty institutes, staff meetings or activities with early dismissal if . . . those days plus other school days for that calendar month average at least 5 1/2 hours for secondary schools and 5 hours for elementary schools for the school day."

5. Local school committees may apply to the State Board if "certain extraordinary circumstances . . . make it desirable . . . to deviate from the existing regulations."

6. The department will encourage and evaluate "experimental innovative programs."

7. High schools requiring final examinations may not schedule such exams for more than three full days. "On those days students may be required to be present only for [their] examinations."

REG. #27

Equality of Opportunities/Racial Balance

Regulations Pertaining to the Preparation of Racial Balance Plans Which Involve Redistricting

The purpose of these regulations "is to provide assistance and guidance to the school committees . . . .which must prepare . . . plans in accordance with the statutory requirements and restraints of the Racial Imbalance Act." The attempt has been made here to interpret those requirements and constraints.

The Board is ready and willing "to provide appropriate technical assistance in the specific application of . . . [the following]. . . definitions to the preparation of such plans.

Safety

The Racial Imbalance Act [G.L. Ch. 71, Section 37D] requires that any plan to eliminate racial imbalance give full consideration to the safety of the children involved in travelling" between home and school. Those safety hazards involved here "arise from the distance students might have to walk or other hazards which they might encounter." Such problems "may be eliminated by providing properly supervised transportation." General school committee policy and administrative practices are "to provide transportation wherever there is a question about the safety of children travelling to and from school even for short distances." Factors to be considered in determining whether a safety hazard exists include "distance and the age of the children involved. This practice reflects the well-founded judgment that in many circumstances providing transportation is preferable from the point of view of safety to requiring that children walk to school."

Thus, wherever local school authorities determine that "the safety of particular children travelling between home and school under the provisions of a racial balance plan is in any way questionable" properly supervised transportation shall be furnished to these children. If the committee decides that "it can provide for the safety of those children while requiring them to continue to walk to school . . ." transportation may be omitted.

Size of Districts

No mechanical application of a fixed formula can be used to determine the permissible size of a school district. "A district is unlawfully large when its size creates undue risk of physical harm to the children attending schools therein.

Since geographical distance is a consideration of varying significance depending primarily upon population density, the Board defines an excessively large elementary or intermediate school district as one which encompasses more than 3500 elementary or 3500 intermediate students. There shall be no limit on the size of high school districts."

School

For purposes of "enrollment computations . . . a school shall be defined as an aggregate of shared educational relationships among students, faculty, and others, which are operated for a full day" (i.e., 5 to 5 1/2 hours per day).

REG. #36A

Length of School Year and School Day

Supercede regulations of July 28, 1970, and Bulletin 326, Section 6 relating to vocational schools.

1. "All school districts shall schedule a minimum of 180 days per year," but at the option of the school committee a lesser number of days may be utilized as hereinafter set forth.

2. "The minimum length of the school year may be determined on the basis of instructional hours, during which both pupils and teachers shall be present and engaged in regular teaching-learning activities.

3. [T]he frequency and length of kindergarten sessions shall be maintained when elementary grade levels are in session in the district." Those districts scheduling two daily kindergarten sessions may not cancel the afternoon session (for workshops, conferences, etc.) unless the attendance sessions are reversed at mid-year.

4. "Elementary schools shall operate a minimum of 900 hours during the school year, exclusive of lunch periods but including recess periods, or 180 days of 5 instructional hours each, exclusive of lunch periods.

5. Secondary schools shall operate a minimum of either 990 hours during the school year, exclusive of lunch or other recess, or 180 days of 5 1/2 instructional hours each, exclusive of lunch or other recess.

6. Vocational schools shall operate a minimum of either 1080 hours during the school year, exclusive of lunch or other recess, or 180 days of 6 instructional hours each, exclusive of lunch or other recess."

7. Local school committees shall designate as either elementary or secondary, those schools including elements of both.

8. Local school committees "shall have the authority to determine the number of hours in a school day for both the elementary and secondary grades" so long as the prescribed minimums are met.

9. The Board may waive these requirements when "good cause" is shown.

REGULATIONS

Standards for Accreditation of Elementary and Secondary Schools. (Bulletin 171)

APPOINTMENT

The power to prescribe standards for the accreditation of public schools is vested in the State Board of Education, which shall appoint a commission for the purpose of accreditation. This committee is composed of 20 members with these backgrounds: (1) Four classroom teachers; (2) at least two each from the following groups: a-school supervisor; b-principals of schools; c-superintendents of separate school districts; d-superintendents of county or other school districts; e-local school board members from separate school districts; f-local school board members from county or other school districts; g-institutions of higher learning; and h-junior colleges.

The commission's duties are to review and enforce policies and procedure for accreditation.

The philosophy of education in Mississippi is to "provide appropriate learning experiences to promote the optimum growth and development of youth and adults throughout life."

The guiding principles for accreditation are: "A. Application for accreditation shall be on an annual basis. B. All accredited schools shall meet certain minimum standards. C. Standards for accreditation and classification are designed to stimulate each school to provide the best possible opportunities for the proper growth and development of each student. D. The Commission on School Accreditation meets semiannually -- once in the fall and once in the spring. Prior to meetings, the Supervisor of Secondary Education and the Supervisor of Elementary Education review annual reports with a reviewing committee from the Commission and list the deficiencies of each school. E. Deficiencies of each school are reported to the entire Commission. After the strengths and deficiencies are weighed, ratings of schools are determined by vote of the Commission on School Accreditation.

F. After the annual spring meeting of the Commission in which the Commission acts on applications for accreditation, superintendents and principals shall be notified in writing of the accredited status awarded each school. When a school is dropped to a non-accredited status, the superintendent, the principal, and the president of the board of trustees shall be notified in writing. Such notice shall state clearly the reasons for the loss of accreditation. A school dropped from the accredited list will be afforded a hearing before the Commission upon request by the official governing body of the school. In case of an adverse decision by the Commission, such school through its superintendent and president of the board of trustees, may appeal from the Commission to the State Board of Education. G. Ordinarily, a school shall not be dropped from accredited status prior to the end of the current session. H. The Commission on School Accreditation elects from its membership annually one member to serve as chairman, one member as vice chairman, and one member as secretary. The chairman, with the advice and consent of the members, appoints special and standing committees that are considered necessary. When it becomes necessary to send a visiting committee to any school to ascertain facts about the school or school system, the chairman is empowered to appoint such committee(s) and to call special meetings of the full Commission. I. The standards are such as to encourage local initiative to improve the educational program of local schools, and to enlist the active support of lay and professional groups. J. The development of a program of accreditation is one of the principal means of making known to both lay and professional groups the essentials of a well-balanced school program. K. The standards are designed to embody the essentials of a well-balanced school program. L. Periodic self-evaluation of schools with approved criteria will promote school improvement. M. Exploratory or experimental programs in the organization of instruction are encouraged, but all such programs which are at variance with standards shall be submitted to the Division of Instruction, State Department of Education, for approval before they are put into operation."

This Guide includes provisions for who may apply for accreditation and in what manner such an application should be filed, fees, etc.

III. Quality of the Educational Process

A. Qualification Standards for Schools and School Districts

1. Accreditation

STATUTES

§75-7501 — 75-7502

The board of public education shall adopt "standards of accreditation for all schools . . . upon the recommendations of the superintendent of public instruction." All schools shall be reviewed annually by the superintendent of public instruction "to determine . . . compliance with the standards of accreditation." After accreditation status has been established by the board, "notification . . . for the applicable school year shall be given to each district."

REGULATIONS

§48-2.6(1)-S600

Public schools in Montana are accredited annually. Accreditation recommendations are based on data provided by school districts, other reports and visitation observations from the office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction. Schools meeting most of the standards may receive accreditation for periods of up to five years by applying to the State Superintendent and by completing a self-evaluation followed by a team visitation to review and appraise the school. Once annual accreditation has been established by the Board, a change in status can be made only upon a showing that an error occurred in reporting or interpreting the data.

§48-2.6(1)-S610

There are five categories of accreditation. The first, multi-year accreditation, is given to a school which meets the minimum standards, exhibits evidence of having met many of the recommended standards, operates an outstanding educational program, and provides a long-range plan for improvement of the school's educational program. Multi-year accreditation may be granted for a period up to five years.

Regular accreditation is given to a school which meets minimum standards or deviates only slightly from those standards and is for a one-year period.

A school "accredited with advice" is one which exhibits serious and/or numerous deviations from minimum standards and in which improvement is expected within the school year.

"Accredited on probation" means that the school continues to have serious deviations from standards or has become substantially worse over the previous year. The local school board must adopt and submit to the Superintendent of Public Instruction a school improvement plan which provides a systematic procedure for correcting the deviations noted.

A non-accredited school is one which fails to improve after being accredited with advice or on probation.

§48-2.6(1)-S620

A certificate of accreditation will be issued to each accredited school.

§48-2.6(1)-S640

The types of public schools are as follows: (1) elementary school composed of grades K through eight; (2) middle school, made up of any combination of grades four through eight; (3) junior high school composed of grades seven, eight and nine; (4) senior high which may be a 3-year, 4-year, or 6-year school.

§48-2.6(1)-S650

To be eligible for accreditation, new junior high schools or high schools must be approved by the Superintendent of Public Instruction prior to their establishment. Schools operating for the first time or one not in operation the previous year must comply with the statutory requirements for a new school.

§48-2.6(1)-S660

Specialists, para-professionals and teacher aides employed in a school will be considered in the evaluation of the school for accreditation purposes. Where class enrollment is in excess of minimum standards, consideration will be given in determining the severity of deviation for those schools employing specialists and teacher aides.

§48-2.6(2)-S690

Each school district operating both an elementary and secondary school must have a certified superintendent. The district superintendent is responsible for selecting and assigning school employees, and for administering and supervising the education program, subject to the approval of the board of trustees.

§48-2.6(2)-S6000

The school principal shall be certified in accordance with statutes and policies of the Board of Public Education. Requirements for the services of principals are determined by enrollments of schools or school districts.

In a school with less than 150 pupils which is not under the supervision of a district superintendent, supervision shall be provided at the minimum of two days per teacher per year.

The following is recommended:

(a) In a school with less than 150 students, not under the supervision of a district superintendent, supervision shall be provided at the minimum average of one-half day per teacher per month.

(b) In a school district where the combined elementary and secondary enrollment is between 50 and 150, where the superintendent is the principal in both schools, he/she shall devote half time to administration and supervision in both schools. Where the combined enrollment is 150-300, the superintendent may serve as half-time elementary or high school principal for the other unit in the district.

(c) In a district with a combined enrollment of 150-300, the district shall employ both an elementary and a high school principal.

(d) A school with an enrollment over 300 shall employ a full-time principal.

(e) Any elementary, junior high or senior high school with an enrollment over 500 shall employ an assistant to the principal.

§48-2.6(2)-S6060

School morale should be promoted through such means as cooperatively developing handbooks which interpret administrative policies to students and teachers.

"Excessive teacher turnover and lack of administrative continuity may indicate deficiencies in school morale and will be considered in the accreditation process."

§48-2.6(6)-S6070

Teacher certification serves a dual purpose: (1) to assure the community of well-prepared teachers, and (2) to contribute to teachers' professional growth by requiring them to continue study. Accreditation standards require that high schools shall employ at least four certified teachers and that they be assigned on the basis of certificate endorsements and college preparation. "Released time" is required to enable teachers to develop lesson plans, engage in research and to participate in training sessions. Accreditation standards limit the teaching load for a teacher to 28 hours per week. In addition, the standards encourage schools to use para-professionals in the classroom.

§48-2.46(1)-S4630

The trustees of an elementary school may establish a middle school if approved by the Superintendent of Public Instruction. In considering whether or not to approve a middle school, the Superintendent will use the following criteria: (1) grade seven and eight must have an enrollment of 90 or more; (2) the middle school must be organized as a cohesive unit within the school district system; and (3) sufficient evidence must be presented that the middle school can meet state accreditation standards. Discretionary authority will be exercised by the Superintendent of Public Instruction in considering or applying other factors deemed appropriate.

§48-2.18(34)-S18520

Any teacher providing instruction in special education must be certified with an endorsement in special education regardless of time assigned to the special education program. The teacher may not be assigned to work with regular students while assigned to the program. Special education endorsement is granted upon completion of a program approved by an accredited college or university.

Provisional approval, until July 1, 1978, to teach special education may be granted by the Superintendent of Public Instruction to one who has a valid teaching certificate and at least 15 quarter hours in special education and is on a planned program with an accredited college or university to complete that institution's approved major or minor in special education. A teacher of the hearing impaired will not be approved for funding if the teacher only has provisional approval for a special education endorsement. The teacher's training must be in the area of hearing impaired through an approved program with an accredited college or university.

The Superintendent of Public Instruction through a letter of authority will approve persons to administer, score and interpret individual tests of learning aptitude (IQ) and to participate on child study teams as a school psychologist insofar as these persons present an acceptable transcript of university or college courses adhering to criteria set forth encompassing a Master's degree or five years in the pupil personnel services. The college or university person responsible for the applicant's learning aptitude testing program must submit a letter of endorsement to the Superintendent of Public Instruction if the individual does not have a minimum of six quarter hours in a school psychology practicum. If one meets all the requirements, he/she is authorized to perform psychological services for exceptional children with written approval from the Superintendent of Public Instruction. Authority to test is contingent upon confining one's services to students enrolled in districts in which one is providing services. The authorization to administer, score and interpret individual tests will be valid for six years and renewed upon evidence of satisfactory performance. The authorization is not to be construed as licensure of psychologists or endorsement for the private practice of psychology or for contracting directly with parents to test a child or children.

§48-2.18(34)-S18620; S-18630

If a vocational education teacher is working in a special education program and does not have a special education endorsement, that person must work under the supervision of certified special education personnel.

School districts may establish any requirements they feel necessary for teacher aides. Aides should be under the supervision of professional staff and not in the primary teaching role.

§48-2.18(38)-S18640

When specific curriculum area teachers are assigned full-time to special education, the school district must obtain prior approval from the Superintendent of Public Instruction to consider that position as part of the special education program. The teacher must have a training certificate with an endorsement in the specific curricular area of instruction and should obtain specific skills which enable the teacher to deal effectively with handicapped children through either formal training or inservice training. Special education supervision must be provided to any auxiliary personnel.

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMS

REGULATIONS

§48-2.16(10) - S6110

"A program of instruction for students is the central reason for the school's existence." Accreditation standards outline a minimum program which schools should consider as a starting point. A district must formulate precise and realistic goals for its educational program. An effective curriculum must be reinforced by a quality library and resource center, which reflect a variety of interests, subject areas and reading levels.

POLICY GUIDES

BASIC QUALITY EDUCATION 1975 REPORT
Board of Public Education 117 pages

"Basic quality education" is the 1975 report of the Montana Board of Public Education presented to the Legislature in January 1975. The report reflects the effort and thought of many Montanans who attended meetings held throughout the state or who submitted ideas in writing to the Board. In this report, the Board offers its definition of "basic quality education" and a series of 22 recommendations which it believes necessary for effective realization of its goal.

In sum, the Board's definition of "basic quality education" is as follows: "a basic quality education is a process which can enable students to transform their potential into actuality." The Board identified eight dimensions inherent to the definition, all interrelated and of equal importance. To help students transform their potential into actuality, schooling should enable them: (1) to learn who they are becoming; (2) to develop personal responsibility; (3) to be effective in a changing world; (4) to further their creative ability; (5) to assume social responsibility; (6) to reason critically and creatively; (6) to communicate ideas, knowledge, thoughts and feelings; and (8) to find joy in learning.

In order to effectively realize basic quality education at the state, local and classroom levels, the Board recommends the following:

(1) active community involvement in the formulation of school goals and policy; (2) legislative efforts to involve the public in education policies.

As a step toward implementing Article X, Sec. 1 of the Montana Constitution: "it is the goal of the people to establish a system of education which will develop the full educational potential of each person," the Board of Public Education recommends: (3) in reviewing their written philosophies of education, local school districts should consider this philosophy of basic quality education; (4) local districts identify curriculum needs related to the definitions and dimensions of basic quality education.

So that the Board will not be impeded in exercising its constitutional duties and responsibilities for public schools, it recommends that (5) the Montana Legislature repeal all statutes mandating curriculum.

In order to implement basic quality education on the local level, the Board recommends:

(7) school boards schedule time for community members to present their concerns; (8) all school board meetings be open and publicized; (9) local school districts examine their school environment to determine if it is conducive to implementing basic quality education; (10) local school districts investigate alternative learning environments; (11) local districts offer inservice training for teachers; (12) teacher training institutes develop programs of inservice training to prepare teachers for working within the framework of "basic quality education." (13) teacher training institutions review their programs to ensure statewide uniformity in course requirements; (14) the superintendent through inservice training programs, provide assistance to local districts for implementing "basic quality education." (15) the question of what constitutes teaching competency should be examined and teacher training programs and certification requirements updated to reflect the teaching competencies agreed on; (16) the board of public education and the board of regents practice cooperative efforts in these areas: reviewing, teacher education programs at public and private state colleges; reviewing procedures of program approval used by teacher training institutions.

TEACHERS

STATUTES

§75-6010

SUSPENSION

The board of public education may suspend or revoke a teacher certificate for any of the following reasons:

(1) any reason that would have meant "denial of the teacher certificate" at the time it was issued;

(2) "incompetency, immorality, . . . physical inability, or conviction of a felony under state law;"

(3) violation of any contract between the certificate holder and the district trustees "without good cause. Such breach of contract shall constitute unprofessional conduct."

When the board of public education is informed of a "substantial reason" to suspend or revoke a teacher certificate, it shall investigate the charges and, if warranted, hold a hearing. The person so charged shall have "an opportunity to defend himself"/herself "and shall be given 30 days' prior notification of any proceedings by the superintendent of public instruction." The board may suspend or revoke a certificate after "full investigation and proper hearing." The maximum penalty for a first violation of subsection (3) above shall not exceed "suspension . . . for the current . . . and ensuing school year." Denial of or refusal to renew a certificate by the superintendent of public instruction may be appealed to the board of public education, which conducts another hearing. The board's decision is final.

APPEAL

RENEWAL

Any teacher whose contract has been renewed for four consecutive years for a "position requiring teacher certification except as a district superintendent . . . shall be deemed to have tenure." The teacher shall continue "in the same or a comparable position" at the same salary from year to year, unless:

(1) the teacher is terminated by a majority vote of the trustees;

TERMINATION

(2) the teacher will be 65 years old before September 1 and has been notified of his/her termination by the preceding April 1; however, "the trustees may continue to employ such a person until the school . . . year following his[her] 70th birthday."

§75-6104

APPEAL

When the trustees terminate a teacher under §75-6103(1), they shall notify the teacher by April 1. The teacher may request a written explanation for the termination. After the trustees supply this statement, the teacher may request a hearing before the trustees to reconsider their decision. If the trustees affirm their "termination action," the teacher may appeal to the county superintendent, who may hire a lawyer to assist her/him in making legal findings and conclusions. The teacher or the trustees may subsequently appeal to the superintendent of public instruction.

§75-6107

DISMISSAL

The trustees may dismiss a teacher, before his/her contract expires, for "immorality, unfitness, incompetence, or violation of the adopted policies of the trustees." Any dismissed teacher may appeal to the county superintendent, who shall hold a hearing.

HEARING

If the county superintendent finds that the dismissal was made "without good cause," he/she shall order the teacher to be reinstated and compensated for lost time under the contract.

REINSTATEMENT

"Any teacher under contract . . . shall:

(1) "conform to and enforce the laws, board of education policies" and trustees' policies;

(2) teach the "course of instruction prescribed by the trustees;"

(3) "keep . . . a teacher's register . . .[as] prescribed by the superintendent of public instruction;"

(4) at the end of the school year, "prepare an annual report . . .[to] include pupil attendance . . . data . . . necessary to calculate ANB," and submit this report to the district superintendent, then to: school principals, county superintendent, or all county superintendents for a joint district;

(5) be careful in the use of school property; and

(6) "provide moral and civic instruction by teaching the principles of morality, truth, justice and patriotism" and instructing them about free government and the meaning of American citizenship.

The trustees are authorized to withhold the salary of any teacher not complying with (1) or (2) above.

The trustees shall not pay a teacher's last month's salary until he/she has submitted the required report under (4).

REGULATIONS

§40-2.10(18)-P10160

SUSPENSION

REVOCATION

If the Board of Public Education is requested to suspend or revoke a teacher certificate, the Board first initiates an investigation to determine if there is cause for the suspension or revocation. If such cause does exist, the Board gives notice to the teacher involved and informs her/him of her/his right to contest the action.

NOTICE

§48-2.10(18)-P10170

HEARING

The Board may provide a hearing before the Board at a special or regular meeting, or a hearing before a few Board members, or a hearing before an appointed hearing examiner.

III. Quality of the Educational Process

A. Qualification Standards for Schools and

1. Accreditation

Statutes

§79-1247.02

"The State Department of Education shall establish a procedure for accrediting" the public and private elementary and secondary schools of the state in order "to maintain adequate school programs . . . and assist schools in . . . increasing better instructional opportunities" for pupils. The Commissioner of Education shall appoint an accreditation committee responsible for "formulating . . . standards . . .[for] accreditation and classification of schools, and . . . making recommendations annually to the commissioner relative to the accreditation and classification of individual schools." A school must fulfill "all requirements for an approved school" before being considered for accreditation.

Regulations

5-(7)

In order to be accredited, each school shall submit all reports that are presently called for annually.

11-(4)

A school district seeking initial accreditation or wishing to be reinstated as an accredited district must make application, in writing, to the State Department of Education on or before April 15. A representative of the Department will make a preliminary survey of the school system, its program and staff, to determine if it can meet the Rules and Regulations for Accreditation. If it is determined that the district can meet these rules, then the school system shall conduct a comprehensive self-evaluation, the results of which shall be submitted to the State Department of Education.

Staff members of the State Department of Education and a committee composed of teachers and administrators shall then visit the school to determine whether the school is meeting the Rules and Regulations for Accreditation. The visiting committee's report will be submitted to the State Accreditation Committee which shall recommend to the Board whether the school system should or should not be accredited.

If a school system is denied accreditation, it may petition the State Board of Education for a hearing.

11-(5)-11-(8)

A school system must meet all the requirements of Rule 11 to be accredited by the State Board of Education. A school that exceeds the number of allowable deviations (e.g., K-6 system, 2 deviations; K-12 system, 5 deviations) shall be placed "on notice" for the school year and may, if the violations are not corrected, be re-classified as a non-accredited school system.

11-(14)

A school that loses its accreditation must be notified, in writing, of the specific violations, and be given an opportunity for a hearing before the State Accreditation Committee.

NOTICE

HEARING

11-(15)-11-(20)

The submission to the State Board of Education of certain annual reports is required for accreditation. These reports include an Application for Accreditation Approval containing data on curriculum, pupil enrollment, and professional staff; a mid-term report containing similar data; and an annual census report. Failure to submit any of these reports is a violation of the Rules and Regulations for Accreditation.

In order to be accredited, a school system must meet the Rules and Regulations pertaining to its program.

At least once every ten years every school system shall make a comprehensive self-evaluation. The school will then be visited by staff members of the State Department of Education to determine whether the school is meeting the specific rules and regulations for accreditation.

Rule 14

Regulations for the Approval of Public and Nonpublic Schools

A school system seeking initial approval status or one wishing to be reinstated as an approved school system shall apply in writing to the State Department of Education. The State Department of Education will meet with school officials to determine if the school can be granted probationary approval. The school will be visited during its probationary period and if found to be in non-compliance with State Department rules, the State Department shall recommend to the State Board of Education that the new school not be approved.

14-(3)

In determining the approval status of a school system, each failure to meet a regulation shall constitute a violation. When an approved school system exceeds the allowable number of violations, it shall be placed on probation. If a school that is placed on probation continues to exceed the allowable number of violations, the State Department of Education shall recommend to the State Board of Education that the school system not be approved. In making this determination, members of the State Department of Education shall take into consideration "the purpose and philosophy of the school system and the quality and appropriateness of the total educational program and it may take into account other factors such as the sparsity of population, location, and transportation when they create an undue hardship on the student."

PROBATION

14-(4)

When a school system is placed on probation by the State Board of Education, notice shall be given to the school's Head Administrator on or before April 15, specifying the violated regulations. When a school is not approved, notice shall also be given and the school may request a hearing to protest the change in classification.

14-(5)

In order for a school system to be approved by the State Board of Education, the School's Head Administrator must comply with specified reporting requirements. Failure to do so may result in the school receiving non-approval status.

14-(6)

A school that does not meet the "statutory requirements for a school of its legal class" shall be in violation of this regulation.

2. Other Qualification Standards

Statutes

§79-201.01 -- 79-201.09

It is the legislature's intent "to promote increased efficiency in the utilization of public schoolhouses and other school facilities by providing for a program of year-round operation of the . . . schools." Any district board "may convert to year-round operation" of schools contingent upon its preparing a feasibility study for the program, submitting the plans to the State Board of Education for approval, and securing the approval of a majority of the district's voters in an election. The feasibility study prepared by the district board of education should take into account "present and projected enrollment," utilization of facilities, "savings of future construction costs" if schools operate year-round, potential school staffing problems, and "the probability of public acceptance." The proposed plan should provide for: (1) a minimum of 175 days of attendance for students; (2) "any attendance center at which year-round operations shall be conducted . . .; (3) "basis of pupil assignments. . .; (4) "curriculum development and organization; (5) "staffing...; (6) "student vacation time; (7) "transportation and maintenance provisions."

STATUTES

§79-1297 -- 79-12100

A student teacher is a college or university student in a teacher training program approved by the state board who is assigned by the college and a school board "to student-teach . . . under the direction of a regularly employed certificated teacher, principal, or other administrator." Student teachers may perform any of the duties of the certificated cooperating teacher, are protected by the same laws as regular teachers, and must "comply with all rules and regulations of the local board of education and observe all duties assigned certificated teachers." The cooperating teacher, with the principal and "representative of the teacher preparation institution" is responsible for assigning the student teacher "responsibilities and duties that will provide adequate preparation for teaching."

If a student teacher or intern is in a school that does not have a board of education, "the person or governing body that administers such school" fulfills the equivalent function.

But a certificate based on less than a B.A. degree shall be valid only as endorsed. The certificate is valid for five years and may be renewed if the person has taught an average of ten days per year during the issuance period.

SUPERINTENDENT

All public school teachers and other employees must sign an oath of allegiance. LOYALTY OATH

§79-1233

"No person shall be employed to teach in any public, private . . . or parochial school . . . who does not hold a valid Nebraska certificate or permit issued by the Commissioner of Education . . . to teach the grade or subjects to which elected." Schools may employ persons who do not hold certificates as teacher aides, who may not be assigned any teaching duties.

§79-1236; 79-1239; 79-1240

All teachers and administrators must register their certificates with the county superintendent of the county where employed. No contract is valid until the certificate has been registered. Sixty days after the first day of school the county superintendent shall notify the school board of any teacher or administrator who has not registered a certificate; such person's salary will be withheld from the date the board receives notification. The superintendent shall also notify the county treasurer to withhold the money of "any district employing an uncertificated teacher or administrator" either until a certificate has been registered or the board has dismissed the person.

§79-1247.03 -- 79-1247.14

The purpose of these provisions is "to provide more flexibility in the certification of qualified teachers . . . and not to increase . . . requirements for" certification. The State Board of Education shall prescribe rules and procedures for "issuance, renewal, conversion, revival, cancellation, suspension, and revocation of certificates and permits to teach, counsel, supervise, and administer in all . . . schools . . . based upon earned college credit . . . in humanities, . . . social and natural sciences, . . . mathematics, . . . practical arts, and . . . professional education, for particular teaching, counseling, supervisory, or administrative assignments, and/or scholarship, . . . successful teaching, and . . . moral, mental and physical fitness for teaching."

The maximum requirements for the first issuance of a teaching certificate, valid for at least three years is that the applicant be "of sound mental and physical health and . . . good moral character" and have a statement from a "standard institution of higher education which certifies the grade levels and . . . fields . . . for which the applicant was specifically prepared to teach and that the applicant has (1) a baccalaureate degree, (2) satisfactorily completed . . . the institution's . . . approved or accredited program of preparation for teaching, and (3) met all other . . . requirements of the institution as a teacher." Certificates are issued, upon application, by the Commissioner of Education. The certificate "shall indicate the grade levels, subjects, . . . or areas of specialization" that the holder is prepared and/or authorized to teach or administer. Special certificates "restricted to use in nonpublic schools" may be issued.

College credits for certification must be "earned in or accepted by a regular teacher education program in a standard institution of higher education." Credits earned in institutions of other states may be accepted for certification. The board may issue a certificate to an applicant who holds a current certificate in another state "if the requirements for the certificate . . . held by the applicant are comparable and equivalent" to the similar certificate issued in Nebraska.

"The board may limit the use of any certificate. . . based upon less than four years of college preparation for teaching to Class I school districts and grades kindergarten to six in Class II school districts, or any certificate . . . to those grade levels . . . or areas of instruction for which the holder was specifically prepared to teach, counsel, supervise, or administer by a standard institution of higher education."

§79-1248 - 79-1250

Public school teachers and administrators shall be employed by written contract. The majority of a district's school board members "may enter into a contract of employment with a legally qualified teacher or administrator . . .[and] designate one or more members of the board to sign such contract." The district secretary receives a duplicate of the contract and notifies the county superintendent. A board member may not "enter into . . . any contract with any teacher or administrator related to him[her] or to the majority of the board by blood or marriage." A teacher's or administrator's contract must state that "the employed person . . . holds or will hold . . . a valid certificate properly registered in the office of the county superintendent, and . . .is not under contract with another school board . . ., and . . . that there shall be no penalty for release from said contract."

CONFLICT OF INTEREST

Teachers must "have had special training . . . be graduates of a training school for teachers of the deaf by the oral method, and . . . meet" legal requirements for teachers "and such other training requirement as may be promulgated by the Department of Education." All teachers shall use the oral method and if, after nine months, a child is "unable to learn such oral method, then no further expense shall be incurred in the effort to teach such child."

STATUTES

§194:23-c

The state board of education can approve "for a reasonable period of time" a high school which does not meet the full requirements of the state statutes if "the financial conditions of the school district or other pertinent circumstances justify delay in full compliance."

§194:23-d

In order to receive "state financial aid," a school district must receive state board approval of its schools. Additionally, a school district must provide funds for tuition for students desiring to attend a "comprehensive high school" in New Hampshire or another state because such high school "offers courses better suited to the needs and capabilities of said pupils." The parent of a child desiring to attend a comprehensive high school may appeal to the state board of education if "dissatisfied with the action of the school board" and the state board of education may order the student to attend "an approved comprehensive high school."

REGULATIONS

Minimum Standards and Recommended Practices For New Hampshire High Schools, #319.1 Chapter II - Chapter VII

"The minimum school year shall consist of 180 school days of instruction." It is recommended that there be an additional 5 school days planned as a "cushion for days lost due to unexpected circumstances. Teaching contracts may provide for 190 to 200 days in order to accommodate curriculum planning, staff orientation and various policy discussions.

SCHOOL YEAR

The State Board of Education intends. . .to encourage experimental efforts of all types. . . . All experimental efforts are to be fully co-ordinated with the State Department of Education and approved by the State Board of Education. There must be reasonable evidence of adequate planning, of sufficient resources, and of a satisfactory scheme to evaluate the new program following a trial period.

SCHOOL DAY

The minimum length of the school day shall be 5-1/2 hours, exclusive of lunch and recess periods." Organized activity periods and homeroom periods may be included within 5-1/2 hour school day. It is recommended that high schools "consider seriously a school day of more than 6-1/2 hours.

A shortened school day may be considered a 'school day' when the safety health or welfare of the pupils necessiates operation of the school for less than the minimum time specified above but not less than 3-1/2 hours.

A school half-day in the secondary school shall consist of either. . .one half of the regularly scheduled periods or a minimum of three hours." Two school half days may equal a school day.

"If mid-year or final examinations are held, the arrangements shall provide that all the pupils may be in school for the full day." Final examinations are recommended.

"Each high school must have a principal. A minimum of one half of the school day must be available and used by the principal for administrative and supervisory activities" not including guidance, teaching or study hall assignments. If the number of students in the high school is over 250, a full time principal is required.

All professional staff members (principal, teachers, guidance personnel, library personnel) must be fully certified according to state law.

CLASS SIZE

"The class size shall be limited to 35 pupils" except for study halls, band, chorus, physical education and programs approved under team teaching, large group instruction, educational T.V., film instruction, group lectures, and similar instructional plans."

Complete and accurate records of pupil's attendance, scholarship and other appropriate data shall be permanently kept.

"All one unit courses must meet a minimum of 250 minutes per week." Federally aided vocational courses are excepted.

The minimum time standards for approved vocational courses (including federally aided programs) are as follows:

1. Distributive Education.

"Students must be employed at least 15 hours per week at an approved job under the general supervision of the coordinator. At least 8 hours of employment must be during regular school hours."

Plan A. -- Instruction offered to Grades 11 and 12. Five periods per week totaling a minimum of 250 minutes instructional time. Instruction must be offered at least 4 days per week. When multiple periods are scheduled, they must be consecutive.

Plan B. -- Instruction offered to Grade 12 only. Ten periods per week totaling 500 minutes net instructional time. Instruction must be offered at least 4 days per week with multiple periods scheduled consecutively.

2. Vocational Agriculture

"Instruction must be given at least 4 days per week with multiple periods scheduled consecutively."

Plan A. -- Grade 9. Five periods per week totaling a minimum of 250 minutes net instructional time.

Grade 10. Five periods per week totaling a minimum of 250 minutes net instructional time.

Grades 11 and 12. Ten periods per week totaling a minimum of 500 minutes net instructional time.

Plan B. -- Grade 9. Five periods per week totaling a minimum of 250 minutes net instructional time.

Grades 10, 11, 12. Seven hours net instructional time each week. Not more than 2 consecutive grade levels may be combined in one class.

3. Vocational Home Economics

Two-hundred-fifty minutes weekly, instruction must be given at least 4 days per week with multiple periods scheduled consecutively.

4. Vocational Trade and Industrial Education

Grades 11 and 12. Instruction in shop practice and theory must be scheduled daily for-- (a) 3 consecutive clock hours, or (b) 2 consecutive clock hours with one clock hour scheduled separately.

"The minimum course load for a [high school] pupil is four units per year with at least 16 units required for graduation. Of the 16 required for graduation, a total of not more than one unit may be earned in courses for less than one unit of credit. Not more than one unit per year nor more than two units of the 16 required for graduation may be correspondence courses.

In cases of illness or low student ability, the course load may be spread over five years.

Students may earn graduation credit through successful completion of appropriate television courses, summer school courses, and similar opportunities. . . provided they are acceptable to the local school administration and meet the requirements of the State Department of Education." Each student must receive a balanced program which requires some study in each of four fundamental areas--language arts, social studies, science, and mathematics.

The sixteen units required for graduation shall include 8 units as outlined below: 4 units of English, 2 units of social science (U.S. history required), 1 unit of mathematics, and 1 unit of science.

Physical education should be offered at least two periods a week throughout the four-year program. If credit is given, it should be given outside the 16-unit pattern required for graduation.

The minimum program of studies for the last four years of high school shall provide for the following distribution of subjects": 4 units of English; 3 units of a foreign language, 3 units of science to cover a year's work in biology, chemistry and physics; 2 units of social science including U.S. history, 4 units of mathematics including elementary algebra, intermediate algebra, geomtry, and a half unit of trigonometry, and 4 units of similar academic courses of college preparatory caliber.

"This minimum program of 20 units may be supplemented but not replaced by correspondence courses.

A 'unit' is the amount of academic credit awarded for successful completion of a course which meets the time standards specified in Chapter. III of this bulletin [Minimum Standards and Recommended Practices for New Hampshire High Schools].

[A]t least 17 units must be offered in any given school year.

Administrators should hold to a minimum the use of alternating courses. Such a practice tends to work an unnecessary hardship on transfer students, and often the normal sequence of instruction in certain subject is seriously weakened under a pattern of alternation.

[A] comprehensive high school must offer all of the learning opportunities of a 'high school,' plus additional opportunities to meet a wider range of pupil interests and abilities.

COURSE OF STUDY

The minimum program of studies for the last four years of a comprehensive high school shall provide for the following distribution of subjects:

1. College Preparatory Academic Subjects -- 20 units.

English	4 units
Foreign Language	3 units of one language
Science	3 units to cover a year's work in. . .biology, chemistry, physics

Social Science	2 units to include U.S. history
Mathematics	4 units to include elementary algebra, intermediate algebra, geometry, trigonometry (half unit)
Others	4 units of similar academic courses of college preparatory caliber

2. General Subjects -- 10 units.

English	4 units
Mathematics	2 units
Science	2 units
Social Science	2 units

It is the intent of this requirement that an approved comprehensive high school make specific provisions in certain academic areas for students who do not have the ability to complete the subjects included under '1. College Preparatory Academic Subjects.' This other level of instruction must be clearly identifiable as an administrative arrangement (e.g., grouping within a class), as a course (e.g., general mathematics), and/or as an instructional technique (e.g., unit assignments for two or more levels). Whatever the provision, it must be interpreted as a separate preparation for the teacher (cf. Chapter III, D).

It is not the intent of this requirement to set up curricula for 'college preparatory' or 'vocational' or 'noncollege preparatory' students; any such arrangement of curricula or designation of class grouping based upon vocational interests is a misinterpreation of a track system and tends to restrict the opportunity to meet individual needs.

3. Practical Arts Subjects -- 14 units

The program of studies in this broad areas must provide not less than 14 units distributed over a minimum of three fields with a reasonable proportion of course opportunites for boys and girls.

Practical arts units may be selected from the fields of trades and industry, home economics, industrial arts, distributive education, business education, or agriculture.

A 'reasonable proportion of course opportunities for boys and girls' might include six units in business education, four units in an area particularly suitable for boys and four units in an area particularly suitable for girls.

4. Fine Arts -- 3 units

As a minimum, each comprehensive high school shall provide at least three offerings for credit in the fine arts area. Of the three, there must be. . "at least one offering for credit in the field of music and at least one offering for credit in the visual arts..... ." The minimum program described above may be supplemented but not replaced by correspondence courses.

"In any given school year, at least 17 units of the required 20 must be offered in college preparatory subjects, 8 units of the required 10 general subjects and 10 units of the 14 required within practical arts subjects and two of the three in fine arts."

The minimum standards for facilities and equipment are the same for both high schools and comprehensive high schools with the exception that comprehensive high schools must also "meet minimum standards for specialized courses in the practical and fine arts." Minimum standards are based on lists that have been published and accepted as good educational criteria. "Members of the State Department of Education will visit each school periodically to determine if such standards are being met. A report will then be made to the school superintendent, and if listed deficiencies are not corrected within a reasonable period, approved of the school shall be suspended."

A bibliography of pamphlets and/or guides by experts in the field can be used as a guide in selecting and providing adequate facilities and equipment for the schools. Action by the State Department of Education will be governed by the criteria suggested in these pamphlets or guides, and in similar documents as they become available.

"An approved high school, or an approved comprehensive high school, must make adequate library services available to its students." 'Adequate library services' are defined as follows.

"Each high school must have a qualified school librarian or teacher-librarian. If the number of pupils enrolled in the high school is 500 or more, a full-time school-librarian is required. High schools enrolling under 500 pupils must provide a minimum of one period daily of library services for each 100 pupils, utilizing a qualified staff member.

It is recommended that library service, provided by a qualified school-librarian or teacher-librarian, be scheduled on the basis of at least one period daily for each 75 pupils enrolled in the high school.

School library facilities adequate for the enrollment of the schools shall be provided. The current standards of the American Library Association and publications of the Department of Education" will serve as guides for the state approval of school library facilities.

A public library near a school will not ordinarily be considered a "school library." In exceptional cases such an arrangement may be examined by the Department of Education on the basis of "the extent to which the school district lends financial support to the library, the arrangements for a school librarian, the appropriateness of the collection for school use, and the administrative arrangements for pupils to use the library during the school day."

The current standards of the American Library Association and publications of the Department of Education shall serve as guidelines in approving the library materials collections and management procedures.

An approved comprehensive high school shall provide an organized program of guidance counselors for all students. The counseling load shall not exceed one full-time counselor per 400 students, or one period daily for guidance for every 60 students.

It is recommended that an efficient secondary school, comprehensive or not, have an organized guidance program. As school size approaches 300 students it is recommended that a full time counselor be engaged.

There are no minimum requirements for co-curricular activities but the following principles are suggested.

"1. Each activity should clearly contribute to one or more of the objectives of the school, and should be contrary to none.

2. Pupils should be given guidance in selecting activites best suited to their individual needs; all pupils should participate to a reasonable degree.

3. The administrative, supervisory, and instructional staffs should share control of the activity program.

4. Teachers placed in charge of pupil activities should be qualified by interest, preparation, and disposition for these assignments.

5. The activity program should provide for pupil-sharing in the government of the school and the activity program itself.

6. Pupil activities should be given a definite place in the scheduled program of the school.

7. Normal and proper fiscal procedures should be used in the handling of all funds.

Although no specific standards are mandatory for school approval, it is strongly recommended that every high school develop a program of school health services compatible with the suggestions given in the bulletin 'Guide for a School Health Program,' New Hampshire State Department of Education, 1954."

Minimum Standards and Recommendations for New Hampshire Public Elementary School Approval, #319.13, no. 3--24

The New Hampshire State Board has developed a program of Minimum Standards for its public elementary schools.

"It is the desire of the New Hampshire State Board to record that these standards are minimum only. It is the intention of the board to hereby adopt standards below which no elementary school may fall.

For the purpose of these standards an elementary school is any school in which the subjects taught are those prescribed by the State Board for the grades kindergarten through eight of the public schools; provided however, a separate organization consisting of grades seven through nine, or any grouping of these grades, may be organized as a junior high school and so approved by the State Board.

On June 11, 1969 the New Hampshire State Board approved the following:

1. September 1, 1972 as the effective date for local schools to begin implementation of "Minimum Standards and Recommendations for New Hampshire Elementary Schools for School approval, K-8 ."

2. July 1, 1969 as the effective date for space requirements for new school facilities, additions and renovations.

The major reasons for planning, organizing and establishing a minimum standards program for public elementary education are to; (1) improve the quality of learning and teaching in New Hampshire, and (2) see that each child has an equal opportunity for learning."

The project goals require:

"• Public elementary schools to develop a written statement of philosophy.

• Schools to develop organizational patterns that best meet the needs of all children.

• Sound administration and supervision in the elementary school.

• A broad well-balanced elementary school curriculum.

• Well-qualified and sufficient teaching personnel to meet adequately the needs of all the children.

• Sound in-service education programs for all teachers.

• Good library facilities and services in all public elementary schools.

• Good guidance and counseling services in all public elementary schools.

• Functional modern elementary school facilities."

The uses of the standards are:

"TO INFORM the public about quality programs in elementary education in New Hampshire.

TO FAMILIARIZE local school boards with the educational standards regarding organization, programming, and staffing practices of public elementary schools.

TO PROVIDE superintendents, assistant superintendents and teacher consultants with standards that can help guide them toward an improved program and better education for all children.

TO ENCOURAGE elementary school administrators and teachers to initiate self-evaluation and become cognizant of sound educational practices and standards, as well as, experimentation and innovation.

TO SERVE as a basis for further study by the New Hampshire State Department of Education to improve the quality of education for all children."

On March 13, 1961 the New Hampshire State Board of Education formally approved an Elementary Education Advisory Committee. This committee wrote "A study of Elementary Education in New Hampshire." This report was used as background material for the newly appointed Committee on Guidelines for New Hampshire Public Schools.

In June of 1968 early drafts of the minimum standards were presented to both professional educators and civic groups. The points of view that emerged from professional and community opinion are: the suggested sharing of staff and services between schools with small enrollment and other local schools or school districts; the encouraged use of school facilities for year round use; and self evaluation of elementary school programs.

"The State Board of Education intends that the approval standards set forth be administered with sufficient flexibility to encouarge experimental efforts of all types." All experimental programs must "be co-ordinated with and approved by the State Department of Education.

Schools meeting the requirements of Approved Elementary School and Conditionally Approved Elementary School as defined below are eligible for state financial assistance under 194:23d.

Approved Elementary School means a school which must meet all of the provisions and minimum standards adopted by the New Hampshire Board of Education.

Conditionally Approved Elementary School means a school which does not yet meet the standards but has submitted a plan for correcting substandard conditions that has been approved by the Commissioner of Education. This plan for improvement should include a timetable in which to make the desired change.

Each elementary school shall formulate a written statement of its philosophy and a list of objectives. . . . One copy shall be on file with the New Hampshire State Department of Education."

The requirements for the administration and supervision of elementary schools are:

"1. All supervisors, administrators and elementary school principals in public elementary schools shall be certified for the work performed by the Director, Teacher Education and Certification, Department of Education, Concord New Hampshire.

2. The school year shall consist of a minimum of 180 school days. . . .

3. A school day is a full day when a school is operated for at least the minimum length of time prescribed exclusive of the lunch period.

Kindergarten	2½ hours
Grade One	4½ hours
Grades Two -- Eight	5½ hours

Recess periods may count as part of the elementary school day.

4. A shortened school day may be considered a 'school day' when the safety, health or welfare of the students causes operation for less than the minimum time provided that it is not less that 3½ hours."

5. A school half day in an elementary school shall consist of either a regular morning session or a regular afternoon session or the major portion of either.

6. All state laws regarding public education must be met.

The state school board recommends that a written policy statement of all job descriptions within the school be issued, that an extended school year of 185 to 200 days for teachers be adopted, and that the school calendar reflect a margin for days lost due to bad weather.

The minimum standards regarding class size are:

"1. The pupil-teacher ratio shall be 25 to one or less in grades 1-2 [and]

2. The pupil-teacher ratio shall be 30 to one or less in grades 3-8."

It is recommended that:

"1. In the self-contained classroom the pupil-ratio should be 20 to one or less in grades 1-2.

2. In the self-contained classroom the pupil-ratio should be 25 to one or less in grades 3-8.

3. Individualized learning for all children, K-8 should be encouraged by innovative organizational and instructional patterns.

4. The assignment of teachers should consider children's needs and the specialties and interests of the teachers.

5. All schools should develop the organizational patterns that best meet the needs of all children, as determined by the local school district.

It is desirable for all children enrolled in grades 7-8 to have experience in Industrial Arts and Home Economics." These experiences should merit special consideration "especially when planning new construction [of schools].

Each elementary school shall provide to all children in attendance a broad and well-balanced elementary school curriculum, that has been prescribed by the board of education of the school district, subject to the approval of the New Hampshire State Board of Education:

1. ART. Art shall be taught in the elementary school and provide each child with opportunities to be creative and expressive with art media. The program shall include experiences in two and three dimensional design through drawing and painting, modeling, weaving and printing.

2. HEALTH. Health education shall be an integral part of the instructional program of the elementary school.

3. LANGUAGE ARTS. Language arts. . .program shall include skills in listening, speaking, reading and writing.

4. MATHEMATICS. Mathematics shall be taught in the elementary school. . . .[T]his program shall include the study of numbers and operation. Also emphasis shall be given to concepts of geometry, measurement, applications and formal algebra.

5. MUSIC. Music shall be taught in the elementary school and aid each child in developing sensitivity to sound through creative discovery aspects as well as through the traditional ways of singing, listening and playing.

6. PHYSICAL EDUCATION. . . . The physical educational program for each child shall include experiences for his physical growth and development. The. . program includes games, contests and activities that develop strength, vigor, vitality, skills and coordination for personal and social accomplishments.

7. SCIENCE. . . . Major program areas include Earth Space, Earth and its Resources; Plants, Animal and Man; and Energy and Matter.

8. SOCIAL STUDIES. The content of this program shall be selected from United States, New Hampshire and world history; geography, sociology; political science; anthropology and economics."

Each school shall provide adequate health services for all children.

"Special Education services shall be provided to all children who differ from the average to a significant degree in intellectual, emotional or physical characteristics. Special Education services embody the following three elements: (1) trained professional personnel possessing special competencies for serving a certain type or types of exceptional chidren (2) a special curricular content for certain areas of exceptionality (3) special facilities often including ramps, such special equipment as group hearing aids, braille books and other related items.

These services shall meet the minimum requirements and recommendations of the New Hampshire State Department of Education (Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, Special Education Section.)

When grades 5-8 are part of the Middle School, or part of a Junior High School organization Industrial Arts and Home Economics shall be provided.

Each school that qualifies as an approved elementary school shall meet minimum standards relative to facilities and equipment. Facilities can be defined as those things that are built in buildings, more or less permanently while equipment refers to items that are permanent in nature but movable. The State Department [of Education] will be guided by facility and equipment lists that have been published and accepted as good educational criteria."

The state board recommends that foreign languages and summer school programs be offered.

The following are minimum standards for kindergarten classrooms:

PUPIL/TEACHER RATIO

"1. In the kindergarten classroom, the pupil-teacher ratio shall be 25 to one or less.

2. A kindergarten classroom accommodating 20-25 children shall provide at least 1,000 square feet or 50 square feet per child, for new construction.

3. The minimum length of time for a kindergarten shall be 2½ hours."

It is recommended that the elementary school include the kindergarten. For those kindergarten classrooms that are presently part of the elementary school and for those interested in starting a program it is also recommended that the pupil-teacher ratio should be 20 to one or less and kindergarten classrooms accommodating 20-25 children provide at least 1,200 square feet or 60 square feet per child, for new construction.

PUPIL/TEACHER RATIO

"The minimum requirements cited below reflect what is currently realistic for New Hampshire schools. However, they are to be considered as requirements below which no elementary school shall fall.

1. All classroom teachers in public elementary schools shall be qualified for the work performed and meet the certification requirements of the New Hampshire Board of Education. (Director, Teacher Education and Certification, Department of Education, Concord, New Hampshire)

2. Each elementary school shall provide for a full-time supervising principal in a school with an enrollment of 300 or more children.

3. In schools with between 150-300 children enrolled the elementary school principal shall have at least one half-time scheduled for supervision of instruction and other leadership responsibilities.

8. Each elementary school shall provide for a full-time elementary physical education teacher.

It is recommended that principals of elementary schools be employed on a twelve month basis and that sound, written local policies covering recruitment, employment, assignment, termination and services of all personnel be followed." Each school is encouraged to employ a full-time nurse, adequate secretarial help and a sufficient number of teacher aides to insure that certified personnel are assigned tasks "commensurate with their professional training.

Guidance services for one room schools and multi-graded schools should be cooperatively supported between the local district and the respective supervisory union."

The minimum standards are:

1. A school with an enrollment of 800 children shall employ a full-time guidance counselor. The ratio of 1 counselor to 800 students shall not be exceeded.

2. Each elementary school should provide guidance services to meet the educational needs of all children enrolled.

The Board recommends that there be one full-time counselor to every 500 children and that psychological services be provided.

Some of the objectives of inservice education programs are to implement curriculum revisions adequately, assist new teachers, aquaint school personnel with the latest research and teaching methods and improve communications among educators.

The minimum standards of inservice education are:

1. There shall be an orientation program for those new to the system.

b. Schools enrolling 150-300 children shall provide at least 1000 square feet of library space or one regular classroom.

c. In schools enrolling 300-500 chidren, the minimum space shall be 2000 square feet, or the size of two regular classrooms.

d. Schools enrolling 500 ore more children should allow 40 square feet per child for 10% of the enrollment.

REGULATIONS

Certification Standards for Educational Personnel in New Hampshire, #479, pp. 1-69

Herein the State Board of Education may establish certification regulations as circumstances require and examine qualifications of candidates for teachers, supervisors and administrators in the public schools and issue certificates to those who meet the requirements of said regulations. The State Board may establish and collect fees for the administration of proficiency exams, other competence evaluations, and for the issuance of education credentials.

The State Board of Education has the authority and consequent responsibilities for establishing the qualifications of education personnel to the end that:

1. the interests of the general public good are assured;

2. the children and youth of the State are taught and led by competent teachers and administrators;

3. teachers and administrators will continue to grow in competence and professional development.

The State Board of Education appointed a Blue Ribbon Certification Committee to review the existing regulations and to determine whether changes should be made.

"The recommendations of the Blue Ribbon Certification Committee adopted by the State Board of Education are:

(1) Adopt the approved program approach whereby teacher preparation programs approved by the State Board of Education or by the National Council for the Accredition of Teacher Education (NCATE) would recommend their graduates for initial certification and credentials would be issued.

(2) Establish an additional avenue to certification based on an evaluation of a person's academic background, achievements, skills, life experiences, and ability to perform. Plan individualized programs to remedy any insufficiencies that may exist.

(3) Establish a permanent Professional Standards Board, with delegated authority from the State Board of Education to recommend policies and requirements for certification and to carry on continuing study in this area to keep abreast of the changing demands in education.

(4) Establish a subcommittee of the Professional

Standards Board, composed of its professional members, to serve as an Appeals Committee to which appeals could be made by a person aggrieved by a certification ruling. Preserve the right of final appeal to the State Board of Education.

(5) Eliminate the present requirement for the acquisition of six credits every five years. Place responsibility for professional growth at a local level, making it one of the official responsibilities of Superintendents of Schools, and require all educational personnel to participate in programs of professional growth.

(6) Require periodic renewal of credentials at all levels for all educational personnel based on competent performance and satisfactory participation in a local plan for professional growth.

(7) Have the State Board of Education provide leadership and assistance, including financial assistance, to local systems to help them devise plans and opportunities for professional growth.

(8) Lengthen the contractual year of educational personnel beyond 180 days (with appropriate compensation) to provide time for staff participation in professional growth.

(9) Recognize credentials from all other states whose certification practices are acceptable to the New Hampshire State Board of Education until such time as interstate contracts are entered into by the State Board of Education under the Interstate Certification Project.

(10) Make special provisions for beginning teachers in terms of assignments and supervision.

(11) Establish special arrangements for the improvement of student teaching.

(12) Make fuller utilization of paraprofessionals.

(13) Eliminate the requirement that applicants first be employed by local school systems before credentials are issued.

(14) Staff the Office of Teacher Education and Professional Standards with sufficient personnel to carry out the new demands which these recommendations place upon it. Raise the position of the Assistant Director to full professional status. Make the fullest use of computers in the certification process."

In pursuit of the goals mentioned, the State Board of Education has established standards for:

"(1) Continuing Professional Development

Through these Standards, the State Board of Education is attempting to improve the quality of public education by honing the competence, skill, and knowledge of all teachers, specialists, and administrators employed in New Hampshire public schools. In these Standards, the mechanism for constant growth and improvement is in the local Master Staff Development Plan.

(2) Pre-Service Preparation

These Standards place the primary responsibility for the development of competency for the beginning teacher, specialist and administrator on the college or university where the candidate has prepared. The preparing institution, under these Standards, will be held accountable for the products of its program(s).

(3) Educational Leadership/Administration

These Standards call for newer and higher levels of demonstrated competence for education leadership/administration at both the Supervisory Union and building levels. Accompanying these higher levels of competence for the Superintendent of Schools is a clarification of the Superintendent's responsibility and accountability for licensed staff. In these Standards, the Superintendent of Schools fulfills key functions which contribute to the improvement of the quality of educational personnel. At the building level, these Standards provide an opportunity for the use and certification of the Administrative Associate who may assume several minor functions traditionally carried out by the Principal, thereby enabling the professional to give service to the school and the community in the areas for which the administrator was prepared.

(4) Differentiated Staffing

Through the various levels of certification and areas of endorsement, these Standards are based on the utilization of individual strengths in the performance of responsibilities. The State Board of Education is encouraging the use of paraprofessionals at varying levels of competence and the utilization of the higher skills of teaching, planning, and evaluation of the professional teacher and administrator. The State Board of Education also supports the use of volunteers and involvement of the community in partnership relations with the school.

(5) Credential Renewal

RENEWAL

Credentials for all positions issued under these regulations will have definite periods of renewal as a means of underscoring the value placed by the State Board of Education on the continuing professional growth of all certified persons.

(6) Supply and Demand

The State Board of Education, through these Standards, will publish annually a listing of staff shortage areas for which an inadequate supply of qualified candidates is available. This action will highlight the priority of the State Board for insuring that only qualified persons may be classified as certified educators, eligible to provide services in the public schools.

(7) Vocational Education

These Standards show that Vocational Education is one of the educational priorities of the State Board of Education. (See Appendix #1: "Goals for Education in New Hampshire.") These Standards also identify the types of vocational staff needs to achieve the vocational education goals of the State Board of Education, and underscore the central role that qualified staff will play in reaching these goals.

The purpose of the Professional Standards Board is to provide leadership and exert influence, in cooperation with the State Board of Education, in matters relating to the professional growth, certification, and governance of the education profession in New Hampshire.

The Professional Standards Board is charged with the responsibility of carrying on a continuing study in matters relating to the licensing of educational personnel and to recommend to the State Board of Education modifications and new directions for licensure. This study and development of policy recommendations, procedures, and requirements shall include, but not be limited to, preservice education, continuing education and professional growth, initial certification, recertification, paraprofessional training and certification, revocation of credentials, performance evaluation, and staffing patterns.

APPEALS

In addition, the Professional Standards Board is to act on appeals brought to it by persons who feel aggrieved by the certification process. Initially, the Professional Standards Board will review the existing certification regulations and the report of the Blue Ribbon Certification Committee as a starting point for the Board's activities. In addition, the Board is urged to develop a close working relationship with the Council for Teacher Education.

REVIEW

The duties and responsibilities of the Professional Standards Board are to be carried out within the statutory framework of New Hampshire and within the policies established by the New Hampshire Board of Education.

The Chairperson of the Professional Standards Board is to appoint an Appeals Board composed of no fewer than five and not more than nine persons selected from the members of the Professional Standards Board. The Appeals Board shall adopt its own rules of procedure and shall have the right to call upon consultants for advice.

Persons aggrieved by a decision of the Office of Teacher Education and Professional Standards may appeal to the Appeals Board. Furthermore, a person aggrieved by a decision of a Superintendent of Schools, with regard to recommendation for renewal of credentials, may appeal to the Director of Teacher Education and Professional Standards and may appeal a decision of the Director to the Appeals Board.

STATUTES

§1704

The school year in the city school district of the city of New York shall consist of at least 180 days of school. SCHOOL YEAR

REGULATIONS

§ 3.31 (Statutory Authority § 207)

Secondary schools are divided into junior high, middle, industrial, high schools, technical high schools and continuation high schools. A junior high school consists of grades seven through nine; a middle high school of one year of high school work; a high school, four years, all with approved "apparatus and library." Industrial high schools may offer one to four year trade courses above the eighth grade, technical high schools may offer three or four year technical courses, and continuation high schools may offer courses to students 16 or 17 who are not enrolled in a full-time school.

High school graduation requirements mandate the completion of a secondary school course, with a minimum of 16 units in grades 9-12. A unit equals a year's work in one subject requiring 4 or 5 periods of weekly classroom work.

A board of education may make adjustments to the curriculum to meet local needs and may conduct experiments if approved by the commissioner. School authorities are encouraged to exercise initiative and responsibility in this area.

In determining a school's standing, major factors to be considered are: "efficiency of instruction, acquired habits of thought and study, the general intellectual and moral level of the school." A sufficient number of qualified teachers must be provided and approved high schools must adopt adequate salary schedules to secure qualified teachers.

A teacher should not have more than five classroom periods in one day. There must be adequate library materials and facilities. A high school will not be recommended for approval by the Commissioner of Education after December 1, 1961, unless it has an enrollment of more than 700 pupils in the upper six grades unless the Commissioner determines that because of population, transportation or other factors, a high school with greater or lesser enrollment is essential.

REGULATIONS

§2G.0501-2G.0503

Application for state accreditation by local public school administrative units and non-public schools is voluntary on the part of the units, rather than required. Procedures for accreditation are established by the state superintendent of public instruction and are administered by a state accreditation committee to review and make recommendations that local units be accredited.

"Accreditation is recognition by the State Board of Education of a continuous systematic process of planning for and evaluating the effects of the school environment upon children and their learning. Such recognition denotes that an administrative unit or non-public school has developed and is implementing a long-range comprehensive plan which provides for organization of and use of all available resources and for the documentation of continuing improvement in learning by students.

Three levels of accreditation have been established to indicate accreditation progress being made by a local administrative unit. These are: (A) Level I. Local administrative unit has developed an approved comprehensive educational plan. (B) Level II. Local administrative unit is implementing the approved comprehensive educational plan. (C) Level III. Local administrative unit has documented significant progress toward the attainment of the priority objectives in its comprehensive educational plan."

In order to obtain accreditation status, the local superintendent sends a letter to the state superintendent, which indicates the commitment of the local administrative unit to accreditation according to the policies set forth by the State Board of Education. The local administrative unit, together with a member of the state accreditation committee, will prepare a plan for accreditation. The plan must be reviewed by the state agency and voted on by the local board. Level I accreditation denotes that the local unit has adopted an approved plan. The plan must then be implemented within 30 months in order to attain Level II status. The local superintendent then requests an on-site visit by state officials to review the local unit's progress toward its stated goals. If satisfactory progress has been made, Level III accreditation will be given.

Administrator

This certificate authorizes its holder to serve in general and program administration roles such as superintendent, assistant superintendent, principal and assistant principal. There are three levels of preparation; master's degree, sixth year and doctorate.

Education Specialist.

This certificate authorizes its holder to serve in roles of specialized assistance to the learner, the teacher, the administrator and/or the education program in general.

The levels of certificates recognize different levels and degrees of career development and competence. It is assumed that one will move from level to level as she/he demonstrates that she/he meets established performance criteria.

ENDORSEMENTS

Endorsements may be added to initial or continuing certificates to reflect changes in teaching qualification. The determination of endorsement program requirements for individuals should be done by North Carolina institutions with approved programs in the endorsement areas involved. Certificates will be issued upon the recommendation of the institution providing the program.

Reciprocity in Certification

Graduates of institutions outside of North Carolina accredited by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education are eligible for an appropriate North Carolina certificate if the applicant: (1) is a graduate of and is recommended for certification by his/her preparing institution; (2) is applying for certification in his/her major area(s) of preparation; and (3) the recommending institution supplies an official transcript.

Approval of Program

Since 1962 the official program for the certification of teachers in North Carolina has been known as the approved program approach. Certification of an applicant will be based upon his[her] completion of an approved program.

The institution should make sure that each applicant for certification takes the National Teachers Examination, including the common part and the teaching area examination in the major certificate field for which the individual is preparing.

Reciprocity Programs

Programs of teacher education in out-of-state institutions are recognized to the extent that they are equivalent to North Carolina's standards and guidelines. The state recognizes four teacher education and certification reciprocity approaches which are: reciprocity based on accreditation by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE); reciprocity based on interstate agreements; reciprocity based on approval by the National Association of State Directors of Teacher Education and Certification (NASDTEC); reciprocity based on programs not accredited by NCATE or approved through the interstate agreement or the NASDTEC plan.

A. Qualification Standards for Schools and School Districts

1. Accreditation

STATUTES

§15-41-06

"Four units of high school work shall be considered the minimum number in any year from the ninth grade to the twelfth grade, inclusive. All unit courses shall be taught a minimum of forty minutes a day for at least one hundred eighty days . . . except that all natural science courses shall exceed forty minutes to such an extent as may be determined by the superintendent of public instruction. In all high schools and in all schools maintaining any of the grades from the ninth to the twelfth, inclusive, and doing high school work, it shall be made possible for each grade to complete four units of work each year. The work which is done by pupils in any school which does not conform to these requirements shall not be accredited by the superintendent of public instruction through state high school examinations or otherwise."

§15-41-07

COURSE OF STUDY

"The content of all courses and the grade in which they are . . . taught in . . . high schools and high school departments . . . shall conform to the state course of study for high schools as outlined by the superintendent of public instruction. The superintendent shall provide for an elective course of instruction in cooperative marketing and consumer's cooperatives which shall be a one-half year course. No school which does not conform to these laws shall be accredited by the superintendent of public instruction . . . ."

§15-41-24

"The following units of study shall be made available to all students in each high school in this state once during each four year period if such high school is to receive any accreditation by the department of public instruction:

1. English, four units
2. Mathematics, three units
3. Science, four units
4. Social Studies, three units
5. Health and Physical Education, one unit
6. Music, one unit
7. Any combination of the following course areas: business education, foreign language, industrial arts, vocational education, six units. Vocational education shall include home economics, agriculture, office education, distributive education, trade industrial, technical and health occupations.

Each high school may count for accreditation purposes vocational education courses which are offered through cooperative arrangements approved by the state board of vocational education."

"Upon due cause, the superintendent of public instruction is authorized to grant waivers of the conditions for accreditation . . . ."

REGULATIONS

Chapter V: I.A.-C.

Accreditation is a procedure by which the effectiveness of the total school program is evaluated according to predetermined standards. Its major purpose is to stimulate growth in the total school program.

Chapter V: I.D.

Administrators and school boards are required to submit an annual report to the State Department of Public Instruction. The annual report is evaluated and a classification rating is assigned based on the report as well as on other communications from the local community and an official visitations.

Classification ratings for systems with secondary schools are as follows:

Level One is assigned to schools with a well-rounded, comprehensive program that meets the needs of both college-bound and vocationally-oriented students. It requires a strong administrative staff, well-qualified teachers assigned to their major areas of preparation, and a strong supporting staff. School plant, community support, and climate for learning are among other factors considered. Level One schools have from 50 to 130 subject offerings every year.

Level Two is assigned to schools that exceed minimum standards but fail to offer a complete, comprehensive program. They have a strong college-bound program but have limitations in the vocational area. They offer 30-50 different subjects every year.

Level Three, the largest category, is assigned to schools that meet only minimum requirements. All of the teachers in these schools must be teaching at least in their major or minor area of preparation for grades 9-12. These schools must meet the minimum legal requirments as in NDCC 15-41-24 and 15-41-25.

Non-accredited applies to schools that fail to meet some of the legal requirements as set forth by law and regulation.

Private schools are licensed by the State Director of Vocational Education. To license a school does not imply accreditation or validation of credits.

Chapter V: II.

The following standards set by North Dakota law and State Department of Public Instruction regulations apply to all elementary schools. All elementary schools not in high school districts shall be classified by levels. Schools within high school districts are classified on a K-12 basis.

Chapter V: II.R.

Approval of all non-public elementary schools by the county superintendent or the Department is necessary so that those causing students to attend these schools do not violate the compulsory attendance law.

Annual approval depends largely on an approved curriculum and the hiring of certified instructional personnel.

New non-public schools applying for initial approval are to provide the Department with a written description of the proposed basis upon which the school is to operate. The Department and the county superintendent will evaluate the program and facilities and approve or disapprove as conditions warrant.

Any three holidays . . . which have been decided upon after consultation with the teachers, and any day in which classes cannot be held because of acts of God, epidemic or failure of physical facilities shall be included in the one hundred eighty days."

Chapter V. II.E.

The use of teacher aides should be recommended though this in no way affects the maximum acceptable pupil-teacher ratio.

Chapter V: II.F.

Average maximum enrollment acceptable per classroom is 30 pupils for one grade, 25 pupils for two grades, and 20 pupils for three or more grades.

For purposes of computing pupil-teacher ratio, all regular full-time teachers, all full-time special teachers (in art, music, physical education, language arts, etc.) and all part-time teachers (on a fractional basis) shall be counted. Administrators, counselors, librarians, nurses and other service personnel shall be excluded. Special education clases and services are governed by separate ratios.

Chapter V: II.U.

Generally the junior high school program includes grades 7-9, but, when schools are organized on a 6-2-4 basis, only grades 7 and 8 are included.

The junior high school programs is designed to meet the needs, interests and abilities of boys and girls during early adolescence.

The functions of the modern junior high school are: adequate mastery of the tools of learning; articulation between elementary and secondary levels; exploratory opportunities to discover aptitudes, cultivate interests, and acquire functional skills; educational, prevocational, social, moral, and personal guidance; and individualization.

The curriculum can provide for these purposes by providing opportunity for continued acquisition of the tools of learning, transition from homeroom to departmentalized organization, and a greater variety of learning experiences through varied teaching approaches, personalities, course offerings, and extracurricular activities. Science courses should emphasize more use of the laboratory method. The library should be made the focal point in curriculum development.

The junior high school should be specifically planned around the characteristics of this age-level child and not receive the senior high. More emphasis should be placed on teacher training (psychology as well as subject matter) for this level.

Chapter V: VI.

Experimental projects undertaken by a school (including variations of class schedule, variations of class size, and courses not included in the 1970 planning guide) must be approved by the State Department of Public Instruction.

General Criteria for approval include the following:

The scope of the course content must be within minimum standards as used in regular courses. Regular achievement evaluations must be carried out. There must be places for follow-up studies.

He/she shall keep a record of such visits and shall indicate his/her judgment of the teacher's ability to teach and govern and the progress of the school. Such record shall be open to inspection by any school director or patron.

§15-22-13

"For the purpose of discussing plans and methods for the improvement and general care of schools the county superintendent . . . shall convene the board members . . . of the schools once a year."

§15-22-18

". . . the county superintendent shall submit a report to the superintendent of public instruction containing statistics, items and statements relevant to the schools. He/she shall not receive his/her salary until the report is submitted.

§15-39.1-22

The board is required to make an annual report, submitted to the superintendent of public instruction.

§15-53.1 -- 14

"1. The county committee may make a . . . study of the county school system whenever deemed necessary to consider . . . .:

1. The size, geographical features and boundaries of districts.

2. The number of pupils attending school and the population of the districts.

3. The location and condition of school buildings and their accessibility to pupils.

4. The school centers where . . . children attend high school.

5. Conditions affecting the welfare of the teachers and pupils.

The committee shall also give due consideration . . . to the educational needs of local communities; to economies in transportation and administration; to the future use of existing satisfactory school buildings, sites and playfields; to a reduction in disparities in per-pupil valuation among school districts, to the equalization of the educational opportunities of pupils, and to other relevant matters . . . ."

Learning Program

Regulations
Chapter V: II.W.

The "modern" concept of evaluation "takes the spotlight off the teacher, so to speak, and places the spotlight on the total teaching-learning situation which includes the teacher . . . and the supervisor as well. We, thus, have evaluation of the learning program by the entire group, self-evaluation by members of the group or the entire group, and evaluation of the processes being used by the group in the program of improvement."

Pupil Progress

Regulations
Chapter V: II.N.

Evaluation and reporting of pupil progress should be more comprehensive than reporting in measurement terms, in grades or averages.

The purpose of an individual pupil evaluation might be to discover what pupils have learned, several points at which a child needs help, indicate areas of strength, and point up other data to assist in guidance.

No one best or most frequently used report form has been developed. Some trends are identifiable: away from formal report cards to diagnostic letters and informal notes; toward a more comprehensive report on a child's total development; toward oral reporting in parent-teacher conferences; toward greater solicitation of parent and pupil reaction.

Chapter V: II. Q.

The evaluation system should become a planned, integral part of the total educational program. Evaluation data should be used to develop the educational program. Evaluation data of all sorts (tests, observation, formal, informal) should be placed in cumulative records, kept in a secure place in the classroom or in a central location. Information where technical or personal in nature should be placed in the personal file kept by the guidance counselor, special teacher, or administrator.

Standardized evaluation instruments should be supplemented by teacher observation, interviews, and informal testing. Children being considered for special education require individual evaluation by qualified personnel.

Suggested areas of assessment are as follows.

1. Readiness. Readiness testing, usually diagnostic in nature, is generally conducted in early childhood education programs.

BASIC SKILLS

2. Achievement. Achievement should be assessed at all grade levels. All school systems are encouraged to participate in the State Testing Program. Ability testing is an integral part of the evaluation system at all levels.

3. Ability. Ability testing is an integral part of the evaluation system at all levels.

4. Diagnosis. Diagnostic testing is a continual process which should be implemented at all levels in all subject areas.

5. Special Areas. Conditions may warrant the administration of special tests related to emotional, mental, social, and physical problems, by qualified personnel.

The classroom teacher is responsible for the development, administration, and interpretation of diagnostic and achievement instruments used to assess general classroom activities. Diagnosis of a non-technical nature requires the expertise of a specialist. The selection of standardized achievement and aptitude instruments should involve the administration and the instructional staff.

School Districts

Regulations

Chapter II: II

Research, planning, development, and evaluation are continuing tasks of all employed in the school system. Because of the variety of conditions existing in the state's school districts, no standardized approach to planning is appropriate.

Chapter II: II. A.

The general objectives in this regard should be to establish a mechanism in each district for systematic and comprehensive planning, to "introduce into that mechanism an appropriate technical component that will enable its planning to be based upon systematic and valid study and evaluation of education," and to relate the planning mechanism to other appropriate educational institutions.

Chapter II: II. B.

The planning mechanism, to be effective should have the capacity to:

1. Elicit inputs from all relevant constituent elements within the district.

2. Assimilate inputs into an integral whole and specify goals, priorities, and objectives of the planning.

3. Translate these goals, priorities and objectives into alternative causes of action, based upon technical study and evaluation.

4. Feed back alternatives to constituent elements for reaction and further input.

5. Mediate reactions as advantages and disadvantages.

6. Decide on appropriate, advisable, and defensible comprehensive plans for educational improvement.

7. Advocate acceptance of plans by responsible agencies and institutions.

Chapter II: II. C.

Among the identifiable phases in the planning process are:

1. Identifying problems (including determining "what should be", identifying "what is," and determining the discrepancies) and establishing priorities;

2. Analyzing problems.

3. Generating alternative solution strategies.

4. Selecting solution strategies.

5. Developing a detailed plan for selected strategy

6. Implementing the plan.

7. Determining strategy effectiveness.

8. Diffusing results.

III. Quality of the Educational Process

A. Qualification Standards for Schools and School Districts

1. Accreditation

STATUTES

§3301.16 -- .61

The state board of education shall classify and charter all school districts and individual schools within each district, subject to revocation for failure to meet state standards set for elementary and high schools. The territory of a school district whose charter has been revoked may be transferred to adjacent districts. The funds, property and indebtedness of the school district shall be equitably divided by the state board among the receiving districts. CHARTER

The effective date of transfer, specified by the baord, shall be at least thirty days after the issuance of the order unless a majority of the qualified electors residing in the area to be transferred file a petition of referendum against it. In such a case, the order shall become effective within thirty days if a majority of the qualified electors voting on the question are in favor of it. If a majority does not vote in favor of it, it shall be void.

For charter and classifications purposes, a high school is a school of higher grade than elementary school where instructions and training are given in accordance with this code and which also offers other more advanced studies than in elementary schools.

Elementary school is a school in which instruction and training are also given in accordance with this code and gives other subjects approved for study by the state board of education. In districts maintaining junior high schools, elementary schools shall include only grades one through six inclusive plus one year of kindergarten.

§3313.871

By a majority vote of its members, a board of education may pay annual membership dues and service fees to an accrediting association which has the purpose of improving education. Such fees and dues shall not exceed $150 per public school evaluated for accreditation in the district.

In addition a board may pay the necessary and proper expenses associated with accreditation activities and school evaluations not to exceed $750 per school having an enrollment of 1000 pupils daily; and $1000 per school whose average enrollment exceeds 1000 pupils.

Such duties shall be performed under the supervision and direction of a teacher. Educational aides may not: assign grades to pupils; be assigned to assist a single teacher; be used in place of classroom teachers or other certified employees. The duties of an aide need not be performed in the presence of a teacher but shall at all times be under the direction of the teacher to whom assigned. When assigned to more than one teacher, the assignment shall be clearly delineated as to avoid simultaneous supervision by more than one teacher.

A district may employ one educational aide for each six full time certified employees. But such aides shall not be counted for purposes of state support, or in the ratio between pupils and teachers. The teacher for whom an aide is assigned shall determine the duties to be assigned to the aide. Such teacher is not required to hold an administrative or supervisory certificate.

No aide shall divulge personal information about a pupil to anyone except the teacher, or school administrator or when required to testify in court.

One-year educational aide permits may be renewed based upon successful performance and participation in training. Applicants having the equivalence of high school graduation who have performed successfully on a renewal of a one-year permit and who have profited from inservice training may be issued a four-year permit upon recommendation of the employing superintendent. Four-year permits may be renewed upon successful performance, participation in training, and recommendation of the employing superintendent. tendent's office.

HEALTH EDUCATION

r. Local boards should specify a time for "the teaching of Health Education in grades K-12."

s. Secondary schools applying for accreditation must "improve and expand the teaching of local, state and national government." Junior high school students should be instructed in local and state government, and senior high school students in national government.

t. Local boards are responsible for "the integration of economic education in social studies, business education, home economics and other vocational courses as part of the curriculum" at all grade levels.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

u. A minimum of 75 minutes a week of physical education should be taught "to all physically able students during the entire school year from first through sixth grade." In grades 7-12 "an elective program of instructional physical education" of at least 150 minutes weekly should be offered to students. "The State Board shall prescribe qualifications for physical education instructors." If the requirements of this regulation impose an "undue hardship" on a school district, the State Department of Education may "exempt all or a portion" of the regulations.

v. A school must have adequate finances to maintain its program.

Introduction; II. Policies of the State Board of Education; p. 10

The State Board of Education is responsible for accrediting the public schools. Accreditation is based "primarily on the quality of instruction."

Elementary schools in high school districts must be accredited "before the secondary school can be accredited."

At the end of the school year "the application for accrediting is acted upon by the Accreditation Section and approved by the State Board of Education." Accreditation is done on a yearly basis. Secondary school grades should not be established "at the expense of the elementary grades . . .[which] should receive first consideration. . . .

"Stability and permanence of the school organization and teaching staff" are factors in accreditation. If a school may lose its accreditation, it is warned first. A school should meet accreditation standards at the beginning of the school year and maintain them during the year.

Releasing students frequently from classroom work is discouraged. "All schools should plan continuous terms in order to make the most profitable use of the school year."

The State Board opposes the solicitation of "parents to move into a district to enroll their children . . . for the purpose of bolstering" a school's enrollment by school administrators or board members.

Elementary School Regulations; II. Size and Isolation; pp. 28-29

Req. a. To be accredited, an elementary school must have an average daily attendance of at least 30 for grades K-6, or at least 40 for K-8.

b. For a school to be accredited the board of education must employ the equivalent of "one full-time teacher for each 2 grades."

MINIMUM STAFF

c. An elementary school may be considered isolated for accreditation purposes if its average daily attendance for the past year was 20 and it is 16 miles from another approved school, provided there are at least two full-time teachers. If kindergarten is offered, "an additional half day teacher shall be provided."

High School Regulations;
II. Size, Unit Offering and Isolation; p. 53

Req. a-b. A high school may not be accredited if its "legal average daily attendance" for the previous year was less than 55 pupils. For calculating the high school's ADA, "the average daily attendance of the ninth grade students in the affiliated junior high school shall be counted."

Req. c. All high schools must "offer a minimum of 36 units of approved course work, exclusive of special education." In a three-year high school, "ninth grade subjects . . . offered in its affiliated junior high school may be counted toward . . . the total unit requirement.

"It is strongly recommended" that the 36 units be distributed "as follows: language arts-5; science-4; mathematics-4; social studies -5; foreign language-2; fine arts-2; health, physical education and driver education-2; and applied vocations or practical arts-12."

In approving a school for accreditation, factors such as "efficiency of instruction, ... thought and study, the general intellectual and moral tone of the school, and the cooperative attitude of the community" are very important.

Good teachers are essential to a program's success. "A good teacher shows evidence of continuous professional growth." A good educational program should show "long teacher tenure."

An institution with a non-standard education program shall submit within 90 days of the finding of the deficiency, a plan of correction to the superintendent. The plan of correction shall provide specific steps to correct each substantial condition, a completion date for correcting each substandard condition and recommendations regarding approval.

Any conditionally standard classification indicates a temporary status.

MINIMUM STANDARDS

All public schools must comply with the Board's minimum standards and Board administrative rules. The Superintendent initiates standardization visits to public elementary and secondary schools on a regularly scheduled basis.
